

Meadville Plant Joins Engineering Works In New Corporation PUSHING HOOVER PLAN

New Castle Plant Will Be Extended By Consolidation

Meadville Plant In Consolidation With Engineering Works Here

SEE BIG BENEFIT TO BOTH PLANTS

William H. Lewis Of New Castle Head Of Newly Formed Corporation

William H. Lewis, president of the Pennsylvania Engineering Works, today announced the consolidation of the Pennsylvania Engineering Works, New Castle, with the Mead-Penn Iron Works of Meadville. It is anticipated that the consolidation will be of much benefit to both plants and both communities.

The consolidation is effected through the formation of a new company known as the Pennsylvania Engineering Corporation with 300,000 shares of No. 10 Par Stock authorized.

The Pennsylvania Engineering Corporation is organized under the laws of the state of Pennsylvania.

Approximately 130,000 shares of stock will be issued to acquire the plants of the Pennsylvania Engineering Works and the Mead-Penn Iron Works Company.

No Indebtedness
The new corporation begins its existence with no bonds, bank loans, or other forms of corporate indebtedness.

The Pennsylvania Engineering Works has been engaged for a number of years in the designing and fabricating of equipment for steel plants such as, duplex steel plants, Bessemer converters, stationary and rolling open hearth furnaces, blast furnaces, hot metal mixers, hot metal cars, hot metal ladles, cement kilns and gas holders.

The Mead-Penn Iron Works Company has been principally engaged in the production of tanks, oil refinery equipment, chemical apparatus.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Gangs of boys about the city should remember that Halloween does not come until the last night of October, and that there is no excuse for Halloween mischief prior to that time.

Whether frost has visited this section or not, the fact remains that many of the forest trees are turning a gorgeous red. Other trees are turning various other shades, the forests at the present time taking on the appearance of the well known "riot of color".

Last night was another warm one, all out of proportion for this time of the year. This has been an unusual fall, as damaging frosts generally occur by this time of the year, but so far, they have not been in evidence. Last year, there had been a half dozen destructive frosts by this date.

It is surprising the amount of stamp collectors to be found. At the post office here, so Pa New's told, the anxious collectors usually call at windows for new stamps any number of times before they are issued. They look forward to the coming of a special commemorative print.

The week for county teachers' institute is a real vacation for the pupils. Pa New's would think so, or anyone in fact, for a group of

SOVIET RUSSIA'S DRAB LIFE TOLD BY RETURNED TEACHER

A picture of the complicated existence of the proletariat was depicted before the Council of Jewish Juniors in Temple Israel last night by Miss Gertrude Klivans, Youngstown school teacher who has just returned to this country after teaching the English language to Russian engineers for a year.

Temple Israel's auditorium was packed when Miss Klivans unfolded a story of the drab living conditions, pitiful lack of ordinary comforts and the present disregard for religion in the land of the U. S. S. R.

Picture a land where a bride's best dowry is a plain room in which to make her future home, where, due to a scarcity of living quarters several families are crowded in a few rooms where there is no private business of any kind and where stern espionage is directed against everyone.

Moscow, the speaker said, is the Soviet show to the world, yet it presented a negative impression to the visitor.

This city is over populated with its three and a half millions. There are no autos, few vehicles. But traffic lights have been erected on every corner, apparently in preparation for the future when the five year plan will provide the automobiles.

Miss Klivans said, Moscow's hotels are few, dirty, and lack the simplest conveniences the modern traveler demands, she

HOOVER-LAVAL CONFERENCE HOLDS PROBABLE SOLUTION OF BIG WORLD PROBLEMS

War Debts, Reparations And Disarmament Will Be Discussed

Hoover Moves Cautiously In Order To Prevent Any Rift

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The approaching conference between President Hoover and Premier Laval of France, today apparently carried the hopes of the world for solutions of the three great international problems, affecting war debts, reparations and disarmament.

On the outcome of their deliberations as heads of the American and French governments, it was believed here, rests the fate of the European demand for a longer holiday on war debts, the American hope for a new world disarmament treaty at Geneva and the German plea for reduction in reparations. All three problems were deemed inseparably linked from the American viewpoint.

Twenty Killed By Bombs From Planes Of Japs

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEIPING, Oct. 8.—Twenty civilians were reported killed today in the Chichow area when a fleet of twelve Japanese planes dropped fifty bombs in an attempt to demolish the Chichow railway station and locomotive sheds, according to information received by Chinese authorities.

While the object of the attack was said to have been demolition of the railway terminus, the bombs were reported to have been dropped over a wide area. The victims were peasants and farmers living in the vicinity.

The reported attack came upon the heels of renewed Chinese air force activity in the Peiping area, which prompted attaches of the Japanese legation to mount anti-aircraft guns in the legation quarter.

The guns were mounted outside the former Austrian legation, which now serves as Japanese military headquarters. Offices of the American naval attaché are only a few hundred feet away.

Chinese government authorities, however, maintained the planes were merely engaged in aerial maneuvers and that there was no danger of attack.

ARMSTRONG GETS NOMINATION FOR COUNTY SURVEYOR

Out of over 200 persons who received votes for County Surveyor, Robert Armstrong of the Second ward, secured the nomination with 80 votes to his credit. J. J. McCoy had 75 votes and C. H. Mihalovich 63. There were no candidates for the office, the names being written in by the voters. Many only received one or two votes.

Boy On Bicycle Crashes Into Car; Is Fatally Hurt

William Brundert, 18, Is Victim Of Accident On Jefferson Street

CRASH OCCURS AT FALLS ST. CORNER

Boy Coming Down Hill On Bicycle; Auto Crossing On Falls Street

Enroute south on North Jefferson street about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on his bicycle, William Brundert, aged 18, member of the senior class of the New Castle High school, was fatally injured, when his bicycle crashed into the side of the taxicab driven by Victor McCoy of 538 Galbreath avenue, enroute west across North Jefferson street at Falls street. He died at the hospital about ten o'clock Wednesday night as a result of his injuries.

Immediately following the crash of the bicycle with the taxicab, the injured boy, who was unconscious, was examined by Dr. L. W. Wilson, whose home is a short distance from the scene of the accident, then hurried in the taxicab to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Police Believe Man Was Murdered Elsewhere And Tossed From Auto

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 8.—A stab wound in his chest and his skull fractured, the body of an unidentified man believed to be from Woodlawn, Pa., was found along a highway on the outskirts of the city today.

Police who hurried to the scene were inclined to believe the body was that of a racketeer's victim, taken for a ride and tossed from an automobile.

In a cap lying beside the body was the label of a Woodlawn, Pa., shop. There were no other clues to the victim's identity. The man, police estimated, was about 40 years old.

New Buildings Are Dedicated

Ceremonies Draw Many Noted Educators To Grove City

PROGRAM STARTS DURING MORNING

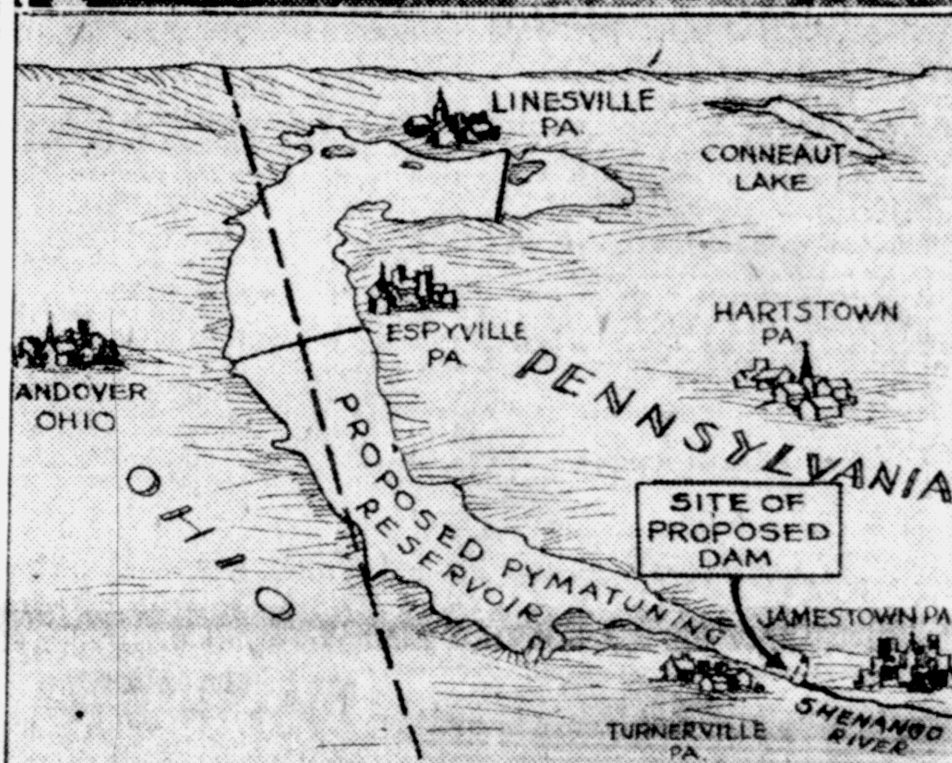

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 8.—Two new buildings were dedicated at Grove City College today. Their construction along with the landscaping of the old and new campus cost $750,000. They are located on the bank of Wolf creek and are connected with the old campus on which stand the buildings of 50-year use in college history.

The dedication of the Harbison Memorial Chapel took place at 10:30 a. m. J. Howard Dew of Philadelphia president of the board of trustees of the college presided at this event and the dedication of the Hall of Science.

Following organ prelude by Prof. Paul Grosh and invocation by Dr. E. W. Purvis, college pastor the building was formerly presented by W. A. Harbison of New York on behalf of his family of that city and Pittsburgh. Dr. W. C. Ketter college head accepted and the address of dedication was made by Dr. W. L. CONDUCT INQUEST INTO DEATH OF BOY

Testimony Shows Driver Of Auto Not Responsible For Accident

Boy Evidently Slipped On Curb And Fell Into Machine

Testimony offered at the inquest, held Wednesday night at the office of Alderman L. C. Mantz in the case of Paul Stirtz, who died last Saturday from injuries sustained the day previous, when struck by the automobile of Walter A. Beck, indicated that the accident victim had crossed the street in safety and had reached the curb, when he lost his balance, and fell backward, whirling around as he did so, into the door handle of the car of Mr. Beck, sustaining the fatal injuries of the head.

Verdict rendered by the coroner's jury, which had been assembled by Coroner J. P. Caldwell, who conducted the inquest, was as follows: "We, the jury, find that Paul Stirtz, who died last Saturday, October 3, 1931 in the New Castle Hospital, as a result of injuries sustained about one p. m., Friday, October 2, 1931, when he slipped and fell into the handle of the car of Walter A. Beck, 729 Oak street, on County Line street, New Castle, Lawrence County, Pa., near East Washington street, and we believe that Walter A. Beck, driver of the car was in no way responsible for the unfortunate accident."

Driver Testifies

Walter A. Beck was the first witness examined. He stated that as far as he could remember, the accident occurred about ten minutes to one o'clock on the afternoon of October 2. He had been driving east on East Washington street to the rear of a truck, when at County Line he turned up the latter street. He saw some boys in the street and thought they were playing football. The first thing, he knew of the accident, when he felt a bump on his car, which he thought was caused by being hit by a football. This, he thought might have been a 150 to 200 feet east of the intersection of Washington and County Line streets. He turned into County Line and

HALF BILLION DOLLAR BANKERS CORPORATION NOW BEING FORMED

President Informed His Plan For Bringing Back Public Confidence And Aiding In Lifting Depression Is Being Carried Out—Bankers Corporation To Be Incorporated Within 48 Hours—Good Results Already Being Seen.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The voluntary $500,000,000 Bankers Corporation, as suggested to the leaders of Congress Tuesday night by President Hoover, will be incorporated within the next 48 hours, the White House announced today.

The corporation was proposed to stabilize the National banking structure and restore the public's confidence in banks, liberate the millions of dollars now tied up in "frozen" credits and remove some of the stagnation that has been burdening business.

Details of the President's plan for the gigantic corporation, have been placed before every clearing house association and banking institution.

National In Character

George L. Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, who brought this report to the President at the White House today, just before Mr. Hoover left to make a speech at the Pan-American Union, said the Bankers' Corporation would be national in character, rather than sectional.

The huge corporation will be controlled by a board of twelve directors, one being appointed from each of the twelve Federal Reserve districts, Harrison explained.

He told the President rapid progress has been made among the nation's leading financiers since he made the proposal Tuesday night.

Extend Prosperity Goal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The goal of the Hoover prosperity program today was extended to include most of the world as well as America, in the drive to smash depression and restore better times.

While acclaiming the president's financial agenda, American bankers were organizing his suggested $500,000,000 corporation to stabilize the nation's banking structure. There was every indication this mammoth banking organization would restore the people's confidence in banks, release a huge sum in "frozen" credits and relieve some of the stagnation in business.

Important Parley Near

The administration turned its attention to restoring international commerce by extending the debt holiday and relieving nations of a part of their huge armament costs. The success of these plans for rehabilitation of Europe depended

Chest Parade Here Saturday

Procession On Saturday Morning To Emphasize Community Work

FIRST ATTEMPT IS BEING MADE

The Community Chest of New Castle will have a new form of educational publicity this year when the chest parade gets into line this coming Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. At a meeting held at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday noon, presided over by Ivor Davis, parade chairman, and attended by delegates from the various chest organizations, a good array of floats, group of children, autos carrying a delegation from the Almira Home, and a group of children from the Margaret Henry home, and enlivened by several of New Castle's school bands—these various divisions will be formally lined up by Chairman Davis in a parade order to be issued by him tomorrow.

Many of New Castle's citizens who give to the Community Chest do so without having much first-hand knowledge of the work its associated organizations are doing. It's the aim of these organizations to present, in a way certain activities which may be shown or outlined by float groups, by placards, by marching groups, or in any way the organization itself may decide to carry its message. The Red Cross may show its work in nursing and soldier relief; the Associated Charities will endeavor to give an idea of its daily relief

Democrats Urge Hoover Convene Special Session

Democratic Leaders Would Have Hoover Put Over "Prosperity Program"

BANKING RELIEF MEASURES NEEDED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Democratic leadership of the senate called on President Hoover today to convene congress in special session to enact his "prosperity program" of banking relief measures.

After a conference with many of their colleagues, Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, Democratic whip, declared the psychological benefits of the president's program would be lost unless legislation is enacted immediately to enforce his proposals. They appealed to the president to summon congress in special session.

The senate leaders took this stand after Rep. John Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader of the house, demanded a special session. This put the United Democratic leadership of Congress behind the plea for an immediate session of Congress.

"As far as the president's banking proposals go," said Robinson, "I regard them as sound, practical and susceptible of being supplemented by other consistent measures. It does seem to me however that the surest and quickest way to get decisions and to make plans effective, is by assembling congress."

Scotland laners certainly were in the thick of a heated football scrimmage in the shadow of the institute building yesterday afternoon. But next week it's work again!

A lover of this warmer weather expressed his hopes this morning that it will stay the same until Christmas, and then he'd like to see it warm up again.

Have you ever seen an Italian fig tree bearing fruit? Well! not many people here have, but Ralph Littera, 713 South Mill street, has one in his garden that is the first one ever raised in this district and the tree is now full of ripe figs. Mr. Littera brought the tree as a small plant from California, to his garden three years ago and has carefully tended it until now it is seven and a half feet tall and is producing fruit in abundance.

Danger signs are placed in Highland avenue and also Sheridan avenue, as trees are being trimmed at the intersection of Highland and Sheridan avenues. Quite a quantity of limbs are on the ground. Motorists should be cautious in operating near the intersection.

Here's a sign—but it's not one of those "signs of the times." Up high on the Dean block, South Croton avenue, is one reading "Telegraph School." It can be seen from East Washington street. It was placed there when the radio was just in its infancy, it is reported.

Practically all public improvement work by the city has been completed for 1931. A contractor is constructing a short stretch of sidewalk on Ray street, at the top of the hill leading to Croton Avenue. A survey of the Shenango river lines is also under way, after which markers will be placed.

HOOVER-LAVAL CONFERENCE HOLDS PROBABLE SOLUTION

two nations control the world's gold reserve. It was conceded both must agree to any program touching debts, reparations or disarmament before it can be applied as a remedy to the world's economic ills.

From recent developments, it appeared certain Mr. Hoover and Mr. Laval would discuss the American suggestion for a two year extension of the war debt moratorium, the creation of a consultative pact between France and America, further reduction of armaments, proclamation of a world holiday in naval construction, revision of the Versailles treaty with a downward slashing of reparations and possibly, the calling of an international economic conference to establish international unity in fighting world depression.

It will be a tremendous agenda, if only these two governmental leaders can reach some sort of agreement. They will meet toward the end of October.

The American government has approached their conference with extreme care. An instance of the administration's foresight was the fact that Mr. Hoover communicated his tentative plan for an extension of the war debt holiday to the French government 24 hours before he submitted it to the conference of congressional leaders at the White House.

To Prevent Rift.

The statement, which Mr. Hoover read to the conference, was relayed to Premier Laval through Ambassador Walter E. Edge in Paris at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon—four hours before it was read to the assembled members of congress. It was then 10 o'clock in Paris but Laval received it before retiring.

When the president was forced to revise his statement, before issuing it to the public, a copy of the final draft was cabled to Paris. These extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent a rift between France and the United States just on the eve of the Hoover-Laval parley. The administration apparently learned a lesson since last June when Mr. Hoover announced his plan for a one year holiday on inter-governmental debt payments without consulting France, only to have the French tie up the plan for weeks.

CONDUCT INQUEST INTO DEATH OF BOY

was compelled to go around a street car, which was standing there waiting for the East bound Cascade Park car to pass. He had four two by four boards on the left side of his car, he said and was going about ten or twelve miles an hour. He noticed a boy on the left curb and one on the right curb and there were quite a few boys sitting on the wall of the McCandless property.

His machine was just above a pole at the right hand side of County Line street above the intersection of Washington street when the first intimation he had of anything wrong was as if something had bumped against the car. He stated that the handle of the front door of his car, a sedan, was bent and had blood and hair on it after the accident. On looking out to determine the cause of the bump, he discovered the body of the boy lying about three feet from the curb and approximately two car lengths to the rear of the point where he stopped. He had gotten toward the middle of the street after passing the street car, his left hand wheels being inside the rails of the street car track on County Line street.

He stated that he really had been unable to realize where the boy came from until he saw the car. He had helped pick up the boy and placed him in his machine to take him to the hospital, when the ambulance arrived and the boy was rushed to the New Castle Hospital in it. Officer George Wyman had told him to report to the police station, which he did immediately after the injured boy had been taken to the hospital.

Witness Testifies

Francis McDermott of County Line street, an eye witness told how the accident looked to him. He stated that he had come down County Line street and had crossed Washington street to the south side of that street, when his attention was attracted by the automobile of Beck going around the waiting street car. He thought as he watched that the automobile would not make it, but it did. On account of the children going to school, at the time, he continued to look directly up County Line street and saw a light haired boy cross the street in front of the automobile, that the dark haired boy came out and it appeared to Mr. McDermott that the boy victim of the accident, stopped for something and as he did so that the front of the car hit him, after which he appeared to whirl about a couple of times and then was hit again by the side of the car. Whirling some more, the boy fell to the street. The Beck automobile, he said, had not been going so fast as in going around the street car, he said.

Three school boy companions of the accident victim were the final witnesses examined and their testimony indicated the exact manner in which the accident occurred. These boys, Ben Kennedy, Charles Miller and Harry Earl, had all been seated on the stone wall of the McCandless property, when the accident occurred. They were facing toward the point of the accident which occurred just a little more than the width of the sidewalk from them.

According to their testimony, told of course, in their respective individual manner, but agreeing in all important details, was that Paul Sullivan ran across the street and had reached the south side in safety, when apparently as he had stepped up on the curb, he slipped or lost his balance and fell backwards into the street and as it unfortunately occurred, into the handle of the automobile of Mr. Beck. It was shown that the car of Mr. Beck was approximately three feet from the right hand curb of the street, when the accident occurred. There was nothing in the testimony of these three direct eye witnesses to indicate that there was anything that Mr. Beck could have done to avoid the accident.

YOUNG WOMAN IS FOUND MURDERED

the sedan was parked near her home when she and her husband entered the house at 10 o'clock last night. She said they thought the woman inside had fallen asleep and did not investigate further.

The victim's body was slumped at one end of the rear seat. Examination disclosed she had been dead at least ten hours.

Seeking possible motives, police declared the gang dominated by McErlane had been close to open warfare with a mob controlled by John Quigley and Tom O'Donnell.

Spike O'Donnell, south side beer baron, also is said to have trouble with McErlane over control of territory.

Police surmised the woman lost her life in a desperate gangland battle.

No Sugar Lumps For Mickey Now

One pretty black riding horse at Tropp F stables will be very glad when United States gets back to prosperity once again, for he has felt this depression keenly.

He is Mickey, Lieutenant John Reed's mount. Mickey, you will remember, is the horse who received so many lumps of sugar last summer because—well, because he was such a nice behaved horse.

He still behaves fine—but gets nothing but a pat on the back.

"Mickey has to understand that these are times of depression and that sugar lumps and other horse luxuries must be given up," the lieutenant explains.

Patterson Circle Meets

Mrs. Nellie Ringer, Oak street, received the members of the Patterson Circle of the First Presbyterian church in her home Tuesday evening, with Mary Sharpe and Irene Maple as associate hostesses.

Miss Ruth Sample, president, led the business session and the devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Gilbert Long.

India and Alaska were the topics of the evening and were ably discussed by Mrs. Arthur Searer and Miss Georgianna McNeese. Plans were made for a supper on Saturday, October 24.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses after an hour of sociability.

November 3 the circle will meet with Misses Georgianna and Agnes McNeese, Fairmont avenue.

House Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Balph, East Wallace avenue, have as their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bender and Mrs. Bender's mother, Mrs. J. H. Waddington of Lorain, Ohio. These persons were former residents of New Castle.

Miss Lucy Tombes of Ashtabula, Ohio, is also a guest at the Balph home.

SURPRISE GATHERING HONORS ANNIVERSARY

Honoring the seventeenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Weiss, of Wilmington avenue, a number of friends gathered in their home Wednesday for a thirteen dinner as a means of celebration. A delicious menu was served from the tureens prepared by the women and a large table decorated in keeping with the occasion was the center of attraction.

Following card tables were arranged and a contest in 500 was in order.

At a most appropriate time, the couple was presented with a handsome gift in behalf of those assembled.

Returns Home.

Miss Clara Wilson of 150 North Craig street, Pittsburgh, has returned home, having concluded a visit with Mrs. James Hinkson and her sister, Mrs. Joseph E. Martin, North Crawford avenue, this city.

Miss Wilson came here to attend the birthday dinner party Mrs. Hinkson gave on a recent evening in honor of her sister, Mrs. Martin, which was in the form of a surprise.

The guests were served a delicious menu at 6 o'clock at a table appropriately decorated in tones of green and yellow. The center was graced with a bouquet of select flowers of the season. Following the feature, the guest of honor was presented with a number of lovely gifts in memento of the day. Informal diversions occupied the balance of the evening.

Luther League Party

A large group of the Luther Leaguers of the Bethany Lutheran church met in the church parlors Wednesday evening for a sociable, get-together time, in order to arouse interest and enthusiasm in the league services.

Marlett Springer, president, gave a pep talk and informal games and music filled the evening hours until a lunch was served by the social committee, Virginia Woods, Mildred Kelly and Wilbur King.

Miss Evelyn McMillen was named press reporter.

BE-GA-BRIDGE CLUB MEETS AT STODDARDS

Cards formed the pastime for members of the Be-Ga-Bridge club Wednesday evening when they gathered with Mrs. George Stoddard at her home on Wilmington avenue for their usual social session. At the close of play, Mrs. Charles Westfall was given the prize for holding highest score.

Toward midnight, the hostess and Mrs. Charles Westmore served an appetizing lunch. The individual tables were used, and decorations were in keeping with the season.

Special guests who participated included Miss Lelia Henshaw who was awarded the guest prize and Miss Odette Hodgkinson.

Mrs. Charles Westmore who resides on Wilmington avenue will entertain the club in two weeks.

CIRCULATING BOOK MEMBERS ENTERTAIN

Mrs. John Butz and Mrs. Charles McCready were associate hostesses to members of the Circulating Book Club Wednesday afternoon when they entertained at a prettily appointed one o'clock luncheon in a local tea room. The tables were prettily arranged with flowers of the season and places marked for 25 guests. After the serving of a delicious menu the exchange of books occurred.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent informally with chat and other pastimes.

In two weeks Mrs. Helen Newell of the Hieman apartments will be club hostess.

1928 Club Entertains

A spaghetti dinner featured the meeting of the 1928 Club held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Hutton, Becker street. The menu was served at noon at a table decorated in gay tones, marking for seven guests. Mrs. C. Hutchinson assisted the hostess in serving.

The remaining hours were spent informally with sewing and chat. Preceding the social hour, a business meeting was called by their president, Mrs. Nancy Reffner. Plans were completed for their next meeting to be held on October 21, at the home of Mrs. A. G. Crawford, Huron avenue.

WIMODAUSIS MEMBERS TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the Wimodausis Club will be held Wednesday afternoon, October 14, in the Cathedral. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock in the dining room, and following this feature, a program under the direction of Mrs. DeLace Cole will be presented, thus occupying the remainder of the afternoon.

Those planning to attend, will notify Mrs. Walter Hart, phone 9087-M or Mrs. L. H. McCann, phone 2358-W, who will be hostesses on this occasion, not later than Monday evening.

Y. L. B. Class

Wednesday evening the members of the Y. L. B. class of the Third United Presbyterian church met in the class room of the church with the president, Mrs. Floyd Moore, in charge of the business session.

Mrs. Jesse Reed led the opening devotional period and J. A. Cox, teacher of the class, led in prayer. Routine matters were taken up and plans made for the coming month. At conclusion of business the program committee, Mrs. Glenn Orr, chairman, took charge and the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Jennie Forquer, was introduced. She gave a splendid talk on "Prison Reform."

Betty Lou Hartman sang a vocal number, accompanied by Elizabeth Aiken.

Section D served light refreshments at the close of the meeting and the class adjourned to meet again in monthly session on Nov. 4.

Honored On Birthday

Honoring the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Agnes Beatty of West Washington street, a number of friends gathered at her home Wednesday afternoon in surprise fashion. Bingo and other games were enjoyed, and prizes were won by LaVerne Cooley, Mrs. Ray Bishop and Mrs. N. C. Heckart.

At a suitable hour, Mrs. W. H. Morrison and Mrs. I. L. Cox served dainty refreshments.

The guest of honor received a number of lovely gifts in memory of the affair.

Jewish Ladies Meet.

The Jewish Ladies Relief society met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Masters, East Long avenue, with Mrs. Pearl Broida presiding at the business session.

The women planned many activities for the winter months after which a social period was enjoyed with Mrs. A. Shapiro, Mrs. J. Moresky, Mrs. S. A. Ginsberg and Mrs. H. Kalish as hostesses.

Mrs. Pearl Broida, East Wallace avenue, will be hostess to the society on November 3.

R-Nu-Club

The R-Nu-Club members were guests at the home of Mary Piesz, Ashland avenue. A business meeting was held with Genevieve Glink, president, presiding. Monthly reports were heard, and matters of interest were transacted. Later, music and dancing filled in the leisure time.

After the serving of a lunch by the hostess assisted by her sister, Dolly, the girls adjourned. On October 20, Frances Cwynar of Wilder avenue will be hostess.

POLLOCK TEACHERS ENJOY PICNIC EVENT

One of the delightful social events of Wednesday evening took place when the teachers of Pollock school were entertained at Attorney Harvey E. Martin's cottage at Elliott's Mills on the Slippery Rock creek.

A long table was arranged and places were set for 20 guests. The cottage was cleverly decorated with bouquets of select flowers, guarded by tall slender tapers in colorful holders. A delicious dinner was served at an appointed time.

Concluding dinner the teachers spent the remainder of the time in merry social events and they concluded with a marshmallow roast.

Special guests of the occasion were Principal James M. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. William Schrock, Mrs. John Hoover and Miss Wilda Smith.

OAK STREET P. T. A. WILL MEET FRIDAY

Friday afternoon at 2:30 the members of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Oak street school will convene in the school building and a splendid program has been arranged.

Mrs. Leonard Cramer will be in charge of the business session and Dr. Mary J. Baker, health supervisor of the schools, will give a talk on "Health," while "Safety" will be the topic of a talk by Clare Stockman, assistant fire chief.

The pupils of the school will present a program of songs and a "Mother Goose" playlet.

S. S. S. Club

The S. S. S. Club members met at the home of Rose Yanela, 418 Hawthorne street Wednesday evening for a tureen dinner. A delicious menu was served at the selected hour at a table nicely decorated in tones of green and white. Later, bridge and 500 were in play, and prizes for honors went to LaVina Pia and Mary Lorenzo at the close of the contest.

Out of town guests present included Mary Pollio and Josephine La Dasi, both of Pittsburgh.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks with Inez Rubles of Hawthorne street as hostess.

Y. O. A. Girls Meet

The Y. O. A. Girls Club were guests Wednesday evening of Mrs. John Morrow of Gardner. This marked their usual meeting, and as special guests, the club had Mrs. Phillip Moore and Mrs. William Vogan.

The hours were spent informally with cards, music and chat. At the close of the evening, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Vogan served a dainty collation. Halloween tones predominated throughout in the appointments.

They adjourned to meet again with Mrs. Wilford Thomas, Sumner avenue in two weeks.

O. D. 500 Party

Members of the O. D. 500 Club met in regular session at the home of Mrs. Albert Richards, Scott street, Wednesday evening. Tables of 500 formed the main pastime, and prizes for honors were won by Mrs. Lewis McKnight, Mrs. James Kerr and Mrs. Clyde Stevens.

At a suitable time, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. James Bechtol and Mrs. McMillan, special guests of the evening, served a delicious repast.

Announcement of their next meeting will be made later.

Jolly Twelve Club

Mrs. T. M. Moore, Park avenue, extended hospitality to members of the Jolly Twelve Club Wednesday evening when they gathered in regular session. Social chat, music and cards whiled away the hours.

At 9:30 o'clock lunch was served by the hostess at a table centered with a bowl of asters.

Mrs. J. A. Baker of North Mercer street will entertain on October 22 in her home, and at this meeting plans will be discussed regarding a Halloween party.

Full-A-Fun-Club

The Full-A-Fun-Club met in the home of Mrs. W. C. Black on Sampson street, recently for a social time. Cards were played, and prizes won by Mrs. Elsie Bender, Mrs. Sara Nickum, Mrs. Jennie Corsie and Mrs. Joseph Eve. Later, lunch was served by the hostess.

During the business session, plans were made for their next gathering to take place on October 27, with Mrs. Sara Daniel of Carson street, as hostess. This event will be in the form of a Halloween party.

G. A. R. Ladies

Ladies of the G. A. R. met Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock in the City building.

The department president, Mrs. Lenora Helm, of New Kensington, made her official visit at that time. Other interesting features of the meeting included the making of plans to raise money for the Hawkins Home and plans for leaving donations of jellies and preserves at the Haney Furniture Company to be delivered to the home.

P. H. C. Card Party

A large number turned out last evening for the P. H. C. No. 5 card party held in their hall. Prizes were won by William Back, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Lawrence Brooks, Mrs. Shaffer, Mrs. Hambrick, Mrs. Walter Schroeder, Mrs. M. Brooks, Mrs. Julia Miller and Mrs. Tom Cowles. A delightful social event of Wednesday afternoon occurred when associates of the Modern Priscilla Club gathered at a local inn for a 1 o'clock luncheon marking a special occasion. A delicious menu was served at individual tables nicely arranged in the season's tones.

The remaining hours were spent informally in a bridge contest, bringing to a close their second meeting of the fall season.

On Wednesday, October 21 the club will meet in regular session at the home of Mrs. W. E. Harris, Highland avenue.

Gleaners' Meeting

The Gleaners' Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. W. J. Marshall, East Washington street, with Mrs. Earl Douglass in charge of the program. "Health in Our Mission Stations" was the topic for the evening and splendid papers on this were read by Mrs. W. J. Marshall, Edna McClaren, Martha Dinsmore, Mrs. Roy Long, Nettie Hanna and Louise Hutton.

Mrs. Oscar Alexander gave a report of the Beaver Valley Presbyterian conference at Ambridge and was also in charge of the business session.

Miss Jean Wimer gave a piano number and Miss Isabel Douglass read an interesting number.

During the social hour, refreshments were served by the October Birthday committee.

November 2, the society will meet at the home of the Misses McClaren, Florence avenue, with Mrs. James Campbell, a returned missionary from India as the guest speaker.

E. O. T. Club Notes

Mrs. Mary Fulmer of Winslow avenue was hostess to the E. O. T. Club members in her home Wednesday evening. Games of various kinds formed the pastimes and prizes were won by Mrs. M. McKinney and Mrs. Bonnie Biddle at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Preceding, a business session was called and Mrs. Haley was taken in as a new member of the club.

At a selected hour a tempting lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Eardley.

The home of Mrs. Margaret Hammond, Superior street, was chosen as the meeting place for the club on Thursday, Oct. 22.

1927 Bridge Club

Dr. Mary Baker was a special guest of the 1927 Bridge Club members Wednesday evening when they assembled at the home of Mrs. Lee Davids on Euclid avenue. Cards formed the main diversion of the social period and at the conclusion of play a tempting lunch was set before the guests at the small tables, which had been rearranged for this purpose. The hostess was assisted with the menu by Mrs. Walker Balentine.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks, with Mrs. Dale Clark of the Wilmington road as hostess.

HALLOWE'EN ONE NIGHT

IT MAY seem a bit unjust to the very young whose Halloween frolic is to be confined by police orders to one night alone, but it is a very appropriate restriction on the increasing number of "rough-necks" who choose several nights this time of year to commit vandalism.

The pitiful thing is that Halloween, fascinating ceremony that it has been for many years, pretext for many acts of mischief, has been distorted by a few disorderlies in many communities into an occasion for senseless destruction of public and private property.

Householders can endure much from children and even the older ones conceived in the spirit of fun, but when property is wrecked, or air let out of tires, the most popular thing the police can do is to use clubs and handcuffs on the rowdies if they can be caught.

The nation almost lost a Fourth of July celebration because the extremists knew no limits. Other holidays have been imperiled also by inappropriate observance. Halloween is too picturesque and ancient a ceremony to be ruined by a few toughs.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The number of special "weeks" has become so great of late that many of them pass by with little notice. This means of calling public attention to some subject, however important, has been overdone. But it is well to note that this is Fire Prevention Week, since there are few matters on which the American people need more instruction than the needless perils from fire they are wont to invite.

A proclamation by the president ought to arouse the attention of the negligent, though it may well be supplemented by local warnings. One means of prevention is within the power of every household—he proper disposal of rubbish. Another can be applied by the "lovers of nature" who go about dropping cigarette stubs in dry leaves, or building camp fires that they forget to put out completely before they leave.

IT TOOK 24 YEARS

The papers carried a little story from Long Island the other day that contained encouragement for a cynical world. It told how a Long Island man had succeeded in paying the last cent of a $400,000 "debt of honor" bequeathed to him by his father, who had been head of a chain of banks that failed and who, on his death bed, begged his son to see to it that the depositors were paid in full.

It took the son just 24 years to do the job; but he did it, and the last depositor has been paid, and the debt has been wiped out. And it occurs to us that the sense of moral responsibility which inspired this man and his father before him is less rare in the business world than we ordinarily suppose. Stories of this kind are not unusual. There are plenty of "hard-boiled" businessmen who realize that an obligation not binding in law can be morally binding. Business is not always the cut-throat game that some of its critics pretend it is.

RAILROAD MERGER PLAN

Approval of the four-system merger plan for the major railroads east of the Mississippi by the executives of the roads should open the way to a speedy consummation of this attempt to end ruinous railroad competition.

The plan approved is at variance with the map plotted by the Interstate Commerce Commission which schemed five systems in this territory. A fifth wheel would be superfluous and the four-system plan covers the situation efficiently and from the point of view of needed earnings is more practical.

There are local objections to both plans and no plan would be universally satisfactory. But the advantages outweigh the disadvantages in every case. Simplification of the railroad structure is much needed. For can the process of consolidation and co-ordination stop here if the roads are to survive the current revolution in transportation.

The spur of competition is a good thing for public service, but it is not the only reliance, nor even an essential, in the American system of regulation, and when competition is unnecessary and costly as compared with consolidation, it is a handicap. It is no longer necessary to make business render satisfactory service. Business conditions can do that admirably well.

ADVERTISING AND PROGRESS

Advertising has proven itself to be the barometer of progress. It has not been long since business advertising was as severely criticized and ridiculed as boasting of personal qualifications. At the same time there was as little faith in the claims of advertisements as in the claims of the braggart. Only the quack and the impostor, who had everything to gain and nothing to lose, then resorted to advertising.

Business is ever the standard bearer and apostle of progress, and so it was business which discovered that advertising was a vital factor in all growth. When advertising was admitted to the fireside of business of today. Big business traces its beginning with its employment of advertising.

In its conversion to advertising business was soon followed by industry, commerce and the professions. The benefits of advertising had made themselves manifest in each step forward.

That was the evolution of advertising, until today advertising plays a part in every phase of life and is the working instrument of all except the doctor and the lawyer, who still consider it "unethical" to advertise for business.

Nothing in life has attained perfection and evolution as an eternal, ever-continuing advancement. The evolution of advertising will not stop with its adoption by medicine and jurisprudence, but that adoption will establish another milestone of progress.

Be careful of the example you set. When you argue with a fool, he does the same thing.

Come Outside

Where a Lilac Blows and the Moon Shines
And There Is Peace

By MARSHALL MASLIN

There you sit, caged between four plain walls, and the light shining over your shoulder.

You read, you yawn, you sigh. You're wasting something—come outside!

Come outside! Outside there are sounds and scents and little hidden movements. The acacia is there, and a lilac moves quietly in the night. "The musk of the rose is blown" through the gardens, the dew falls lightly on the grass, moths fly here and there, a night-bird sings suddenly, a thousand crickets make their intermittent song, the lights of the city are friendly earthbound stars, a train whistles far in the distance, murmured voices come to you from the street, there's life outside.

A cat slips in out of grass and shrubs, a wild animal for a while; a dog rips the evening with impatient bark; warm shadows—deep green, living purple, velvet black—lie across the waiting earth. . . . The leaves of the oak and the eucalyptus and the slate of the roof are silver in the moonlight, and the moon herself is big in the sky. There are millions of stars up there behind the moon, but she obscures them, and only the bolder ones shine forth. "Within the moonlight flooded sky, how many stars are lost." Within your hard four walls, how much that is free and lovely is lost to you, sitting there, trying to read a man-made book. . . . You can't know what you are missing, or you wouldn't stay indoors. Come outside!

Come outside from self-pity and slack waiting and weary boredom. Let a light breeze blow across your face, let the blessed dark ease the prickly of worry and thought. Walk down the street, sit on a bench, be one little human being in the immensity of the encompassing night, and feel the part that is not you fall away and fade into the familiar shadows that have no terror, but only comfort for the spirit.

Just once—leave yourself indoors and come outside!

LOVE AND STYLES

As I remember, once she wore A skirt that trailed upon the floor; Went corseted about the place; Thought bulging hips the mark of grace; Scorned paint and powder for her face And though such fashions bothered men, In spite of them I loved her then.

Time was I vividly recall The waistline grew, the hips went small. Great plumes were flung around her hat, And to support a thing like that— She pomped her hair upon a rat! Although I thought it frightful dress I'm sure I loved her none the less.

Then skirts went out of style, and she In silken hose displayed her knee; Bought curious gowns of fabrics fair, Which only children used to wear, And finally she bobbed her hair! But spite of all the styles ordained Her faithful lover I remained.

Now like a derby battered flat Comes the Empress Eugenie hat, And since her hair she's letting grow Without the slightest doubt I know She'll have one in a week or so, And I shall think my life worth while If love can weather such a style! (Copyright, 1931, Edgar A. Guest)

RADIO BEACON FOR REEFS (International News Service) MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 8.—Fowey Rocks Lighthouse, just south of Miami, Fla., and at the northerly end of the dangerous Florida Reefs, has just been equipped with a radio-beacon and with a more powerful light. It is intended to facilitate the passage of the reefs, making safer the accomplishment of the big sweeping turn which begins at Miami and ends 200 miles to the south and westward at Dry Tortugas.

Strong currents are encountered along these reefs, and their exact effect on the position of a vessel is often difficult to determine.

THE NEWARK EVENING NEWS refers to reports of "three separate regional independence movements," and comments: "With such divided sentiment, Manchuria is a headache for China and a temptation to Japan. The Japanese reply to Secretary Stimson's note, that Japan is resolved to live up to all its treaty obligations is reassuring. Chinese national sentiment is entitled to time to develop without interference, and the Manchus, jostled out of their old ruts by rapid recent developments in their territory, ought to be allowed to settle their own status."

"Even the state department and European chancelleries are baffled by lack of knowledge about conditions at Tokio," says the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, pointing out that "Japan still wants Manchuria as much as ever," and concluding: "The effect of the present coup and occupation of railroads has been to throw a Japanese army between Chang and General Hsiang's revolt. If Japan doesn't feel that its responsibility for civil order in the seized territory includes maintaining a status quo until it restores control to China and won't permit Chang to send an army against the rebels, the 'provisional government' will have everything its own way. Since it was established, naturally, Japan cannot afford to allow counter-battling armies to overrun a region in which it has so much property and so large investments."

"What should the American attitude be toward the Manchurian question?" asks the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL, with the comment: "The Washington government has taken a friendly and prudent position in urging both Tokyo and Nanking to settle their differences short of war and the replies of the two Oriental governments are encouragingly mild. It is by no means easy to devise a formula for the settlement of the dispute from any source, but at least we can recognize the existence in Japan and also in China of factions with which the best-intentioned government would find it hard to deal. Foreign Minister Shidehara's rampant military party to hold within bounds, and the undergraduate assault on Foreign Minister Wang bears similar testimony to the existence of a hot-headed element on the west side of the Yellow sea."

"Japan has the right," according to the TORONTO DAILY STAR, "to police the railway in Manchuria and other important rights in that province. The Chinese have been crowding in, and making it difficult for Japan to exercise her rights, so Japan struck out right and left to obtain a greater measure of freedom for herself." The Star concedes that "perhaps she has done wrong," but points out that, "as a matter of fact the council of the league is still dealing with the Manchurian question."

The COLUMBIA (S. C.) STATE argues: "Had not the friendship and splendid military and naval equipment of Japan been such outstanding facts and possibilities in the Pacific, there is no telling into what parcels and scraps the great powers of the west would have backed China long before this." But the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST remarks: "Whatever adjustment may be made, it is a good guess that Japan will be found to have lost nothing, in the course of it, of a position of advantage in Manchuria. Each time the question comes up a little is gained by the Japanese."

"The government at Tokyo knows that Japan cannot afford to ignore its pledges to the world," avers the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR, but the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS maintains that the League of Nations "sadly needs to evidence more courage and less disposition to play the old diplomatic game of favoring the stronger and more belligerent party to any pending quarrel." The LEXINGTON LEADER feels that "Japan has no more right in Manchuria under the conditions prevailing than the United States would have in Mexico." The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE remarks that "China and Japan seem to have told the league conflicting stories," and adds: "Whether Manchuria is now the theater of a war or the scene of profound peace enforced by Japanese military power is something the world is interested in, but the final decision waits on time and events."

Suspicion in any real crisis is voiced by the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER, and the MINNEAPOLIS STAR concludes that "the treaties aren't doing China a bit of good." The CHICAGO TRIBUNE declares: "The League of Nations still represents the ideas to which the American government apparently is determined to trust the future of the United States in foreign relations. One worthless peace pact will be followed by another, one foolish agreement by another, one futile conference by another."

"The curious silence of Soviet Russia" is noted by the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, and that paper observes that "one reason for this restraint is doubtless Russia's moral and physical unpreparedness for the conflict with Japan." The Times-Star concludes: "The largest obstacle to Russia's making in Manchuria is the new nationalism in China. That spirit has grown enormously since 1915, when Japan exacted the famous '21 demands,' and it undoubtedly helped bring on the crisis at Mukden. But while the nationalists resent Japanese penetration, they oppose no less the ambitions of the Russian Soviet. . . . One can predict how much ground China will have to concede to Japan, armed with treaty guarantees and with the power to secure them. But it is safe to say that young China does not want Russia for an ally."

OFFER A HELPING HAND! It may be more necessary for some relative to come to your house to spend idle time.

If this person's agreeable and helpful you should not by word or action indicate that his or her presence is not perfectly desirable to you.

Relatives should stick together and feel it a pleasureable duty to assist those members of the family that may be down on their luck for a time.

The person who happens to be in this plight is generally enough worried so that a welcome on your part is doubly appreciated.

It costs little more to add another member to the family.

The amount is insignificant in comparison with the sum it would cost if the person out of employment were to board among strangers.

The person who shares the home of relatives will do much toward relieving those who have to work about the place.

One who is unwilling to share duties does not deserve a free home.

Irrespective of the fact that you have a home today, you may be the one who in future will need the favors you now are able to bestow on others.

Extend hospitality generously, freely, and show yourself a thoroughbred.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Nurse May Speak For The P. T. A.

Suggestions Given For Discussion Program

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

In searching for speakers for PTA meetings, better not overlook the field of medicine, dentistry and public health. Sometimes the public health nurse, who constantly faces many practical problems related to the home, can be very helpful. As we parents are most concerned about how to keep our children well, a discussion by a well trained doctor or public health official on foods and on prevention of contagious and infectious diseases, and by a dentist on the care of children's teeth, will be very desirable. A home economics expert, probably from the local high school, might have much to offer in regard to foods and clothing. A very useful and interesting talk may be given by the school or public librarian.

The PTA is non-sectarian, though one finds among its members many of the most active religious leaders from the several religious bodies of the neighborhood. It is not always easy to find the clergyman who is broad enough to discuss before a PTA circle principles of spiritual education of children in the home, which would prove interesting and acceptable to Protestant, Catholic and Jewish parents alike. But more and more of such preachers are available. In this day of machinery and materialism, a little more emphasis on the spiritual should be wholesome.

That program leader is wise who sees to it that when a particular religious leader is called upon for a place on a program, others of widely different faiths are also employed. At state PTA conventions I have observed programs on which appeared a Jewish rabbi, a Catholic priest and a Protestant clergyman. Unless this sort of wide distribution is practiced a vital principle of the PTA is violated. Let program makers guard themselves against clever advertisers and propagandists who forever are attempting to get before the meetings.

Let there be an occasional program made up of a dramatic presentation from some department of the junior or senior high school which is the outgrowth of a unit of classwork developed over a long period of time. By it the pupils will be strongly motivated in their work, and the parents kept posted of the school's activities. The music and art departments of the senior and junior high school, even of the intermediate grades, have much to contribute. Sometimes a regular class recitation at a meeting is highly educational.

It is objectionable, however, to have young children appear at evening programs.

Ambitious principals and teachers sometimes take advantage of the PTA to sell themselves and their program to the community, narrowing the nature of the program. Breadth of interest through the year ought to be emphasized. If more emphasis is to be placed on one thing than another, let it be on child guidance, parent problems, family relationships.

Some teachers, principals and superintendents, who have a narrow conception of home-school relationships oppose the PTA. If they only realized their opportunities, they would get back of it heart and soul. The more the school can enlist the parent's interest in a mere intelligent parenthood, therefore in parent study groups, the more the PTA will be doing of the teacher's work for her. Better parents mean better pupils; better homes mean better schools.

Junior Band To Play For Games On This Friday

Ben Franklin Band Will Go To Ellwood In Afternoon; Taggart Field In Evening

The Benjamin Franklin junior high school band will, on Friday for the first time, play at an out-of-town football game. The band and the supervising of instrumental work, Miss Evva Coulter, will go to Ellwood City in the afternoon to play for the game to take place there.

Friday night the band will again get together, will take part in the New Castle high school night football parade and will play at the game on Taggart field. There will be four bands playing at this game. The Franklin band is developing into one of the finest the junior high has ever had and consists of some 54 student musicians.

Another Higher-up In Liquor Supply Ring In Pittsburgh Is Shot To Death

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—Another higher-up in the liquor-supply ring here was under the shadow of a handgun today, shot down and killed instantly while he was talking to a friend. Jack Palmer, 35, was the latest victim.

Palmer, reputed as a big shot in the yeast and sugar supply racket, was felled with two bullets in the back shortly after he had emerged from his expensive automobile.

Witnesses described the killer and police scoured the Wylie avenue neighborhood today in search of him.

Authorities linked Palmer's death with that of Morris Curran and Joseph Sinasua, both supply agents, recently "put on the spot," authorities say, for undercutting prices.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

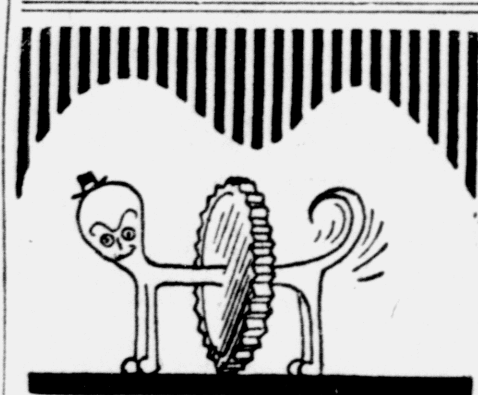

There were a number of events that occurred way back in 1852 that will be of interest to the people of the community at the present time.

In January 16th of that year, the Protestant pastor of the community held a meeting in the Presbyterian church then here for the purpose of taking steps toward petitioning congress to prohibit the carrying of mails on Sunday. February 4 was important to the community due to the fact that a meeting was held in the Cochran House in the interest of the Erie and Pittsburgh railroad. William Dickson was president, and John Reynolds, secretary of the meeting. February 16 marked the date of the first strike in the history of the town. It occurred among the mail cutters in the employ of the Orisaba Iron Works. The strike was due to a reduction on wages. On April 29th of that year, an earthquake occurred which was quite severe and lasted for a period of ten minutes.

GARDNER

Mrs. T. W. Dickson of Gardner, who was injured when she fell off the steps at her home is now recovering and able to walk about, but her arm is still in a sling. While not broken it was very badly sprained and the shoulder was badly bruised.

Mrs. John Kirkwood of Gardner spent some days at the home of her son Harrison at Aliquippa and returned home Sunday night.

Jack Wimer, Miss Florence Schumaker and her mother of Gardner were guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bender of the Harbor, other guests were Mrs. Shirer, Mrs. McGrath, Mrs. Rodkey and her niece Miss Rodkey, all of Pittsburgh, and Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre of Wilkesburg, Albert Hahn, and Miss Rose Webber of New Castle. These guests were invited to meet the Missionaries of the family who have just returned from their respective fields. Rev. Gordon Bender, and Mrs. Bender, and little daughter from Japan and Miss Ruth Bender from Africa. There was a wonderful dinner served but the best part of all was the spiritual atmosphere which pervaded every where and was an inspiration toward all the finer things of life. This family all have a gift for music and rendered some delightful selections with Rev. Gordon Bender and his brother Walter, and sister Miss Clara, on wind instruments, Miss Rose Webber at the piano and Albert Hahn playing the violin. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bender and little son were also present and lent their aid in extending the gracious hospitality which made this a memorable occasion for all who were present. Mrs. Shirer, and Rev. Gordon Bender, just returned a few days ago from New York where they went to bid farewell to Rev. Lloyd Shirer, who was pastor of the Pentecostal church in New Castle while home on furlough but who has now gone back to darkest Africa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Stewart of Baldwin Stop entertained Mr. and Mrs. Schamus of Pittsburgh last Sunday. Miss Emma Stewart is a guest at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Stevz at Ambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald of the New Castle-Ellwood road, entertained these guests recently. Mrs. Agnes Stevenson and Miss Margaret McDonald of Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Ford Stevenson and children of Meridian, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald visited friends at Butler last Sunday. Chester went with his parents.

Mrs. Frank M. Hay of Gardner has been ill this week with an attack of flu, but is now improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Scott, a sister of Mr. Richardson, left the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J.

Davison of the Butler road, a few days ago and are on their way to California to spend the winter. Mrs. Richardson's health did improve during the years she spent in California and she wanted to go back after spending the summer with the family of their daughter Mrs. Davison.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Weingartner and son James, of the Butler road, visited last Sunday at the home of Attorney and Mrs. Klinesmith of Grove City.

Civilian Aviator Reports Big Ship Stuck In Mud In Chesapeake Bay

(International News Service)
LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Oct. 8.—The naval aircraft carrier Langley appeared to be fast aground in Chesapeake Bay four miles south of Crisfield today, a civilian aviator reported here. He said he saw the Langley's propellers churning mud and that other ships were standing by, with the Langley apparently grounded.

The ship was proceeding to Tangier Island to take part in naval bombing maneuvers.

Medical Society Sessions To End

Dr. Charles Falkowsky, Jr.,
Of Scranton, Pa., Is Elected New State
President

NEXT CONVENTION
AT PITTSBURGH

(International News Service)
SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 8.—With more than a score of group conferences scheduled for the morning and afternoon, delegates to the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Medical Society began the final day of their meeting this morning.
As delegates assembled today, the officers elected yesterday, including
Dr. Charles Falkowsky, Jr., of Scranton, president-elect, took seats on the platform, although they will not be installed until the 1932 convention in Pittsburgh.

Other officers named include Dr.
Frank Lorenzo, Punxsutawney, third vice-president; Dr. Samuel Logan,
Ridgway, fourth vice-president; Dr.
Walter F. Donaldson, Pittsburgh, was re-elected secretary. Dr. John B. Lowman, Johnstown, again will serve as treasurer. Dr. William H.
Mayer, Pittsburgh, who was named president-elect a year ago, assumed the presidency for the ensuing year.
Dr. Eugene S. Byers, Norristown, was elected trustee and counselor to the second legislative district of the society. Dr. George Reed, Erie, eighth district, and Dr. A. A. Crow,
Uniontown, eleventh.

Careful Survey.
In an address before a gathering of 1500 persons last night, Dr. C. W.
Burr, professor emeritus of mental diseases at the University of Pennsylvania, asserted that "the probi-bition of alcohol by law has not reduced our percentage of insanity by one jot or tittle."

"That is not a fanatical statement," he added. "It is a scientific fact, based on a careful survey."
"As for the prohibition of alcohol," he said, "I'm afraid to offer an opinion in my own mind. The evils of our present prohibition laws have been so gigantic—in their by-products and results—that I do not believe that the amount of good being done in saving a small number from alcoholic dementia is anything nearly as important as the evils of the consequences of these laws," he said.

Center Efforts On Erie Beetles

Japanese Beetle Infestation Reported In Grape
District

Scouts Find Beetles Here Again This Summer

HARRISBURG, Oct. 8.—Eight tons of arsenate of lead, sufficient to treat thirty-two acres of land, have been ordered, and detailed plans are now being laid by the bureau of plant industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the Federal Department of Agriculture, for the most extensive campaign against an isolated infestation of Japanese beetles ever attempted in Pennsylvania.

Between July 30 and September 7 approximately 200 beetles were found in a comparatively small area in the eastern section of Erie, Pennsylvania. This invasion created immediate alarm because Erie county has more than 80 per cent of the grape vines in the Commonwealth as well as a noteworthy cherry industry. Unfortunately, grape and cherry leaves are the beetle's favorite food plants. This makes an infestation of beetles in that section especially unwelcome.

At the urgent request of grape growers the State plans to treat the infested soil in the hopes of killing the overwintering stages of the insects. Similar treatments have been carried out in other points in the Commonwealth with satisfactory results.

The work in Erie will start at once. Other points outside the regulated area in which Federal scouts found beetles during the past summer, include Altoona, Juniata, Hollidaysburg, Ligonier, New Castle and Pittsburgh in Pennsylvania; Cleveland and Columbus in Ohio; Charleston, South Carolina; Buffalo Little Falls, Watkins Glen, Fort Edward and Albany in New York; and at several points in Somerset and Worcester counties, Maryland.

Wrestles Airplane, Throws It; Is Unhurt

(International News Service)
OTTAWA, Ill., Oct. 8.—George Hamm, a licensed mechanic at the local airport, has the distinction of being probably the first man to wrestle and gain a fall over an airplane.

Recently Hamm was on the ground in front of the plane making some adjustments. He started the motor. The gas pedal stuck and the big plane lurched forward and headed straight toward a highway lined with motorists. Hamm threw himself to the ground to escape the propeller then jumped up and grabbed one wing.

The speed of the craft was so great that the mechanic was unable to get into the fuselage but he hung on to the wing and kept to his feet long enough to swing the plane toward a fence. The craft rolled over, when it struck the fence causing considerable damage to the propeller, wings and other equipment, but Hamm was unhurt.

Training Schools To Be Provided

State Sabbath School Association
To Conduct Schools
In Lawrence County

A leadership training school which will give international credit will be conducted in the First Baptist church of New Castle and the United Presbyterian church of New Wilmington starting the week of October 19. This school will be put on by the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association and Dr. George W. Wellburn, Christian education superintendent of the state association, will be the instructor. The course will be particularly suited to Sabbath school executives and Sabbath school teachers, but any Sabbath school member is invited to take this course. The dean for the New Castle school will be Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church of New Castle, and Rev. J. Ralph Neale, pastor of the United Presbyterian church of New Wilmington, will be the dean of the New Wilmington school.

As far as is known now there will be five class periods in New Castle and five class periods in New Wilmington, and the tentative arrangements are for the school to open Monday night, October 19, at 7:30 at the United Presbyterian church of New Wilmington. The opening night for New Castle would then be Tuesday, October 20, at 7:30 at the First Baptist church.

As far as is known now, there will be no charge for this course and Sabbath school superintendents over the county are urged to announce this at next Sunday's session and to urge teachers and executives to take this interesting and instructive course. For the districts outside of New Castle, Pulaski district can very conveniently attend the classes at New Wilmington, and Mr. Jackson, Wampum, Slippery Rock and Plaingrove can attend the classes at the First Baptist church of New Castle. Ellwood district has already had one of the leadership training schools at Ellwood City, but those from Ellwood City wishing to secure additional credits may attend the New Castle school.

Church Is Built Without Any Cost

SUMMITVILLE, Pa. Oct. 8.—A church built without money was dedicated here by the congregation of St. John's Catholic parish. Bishop Joseph Schrembs, Cleveland, was invited as guest of honor at a banquet marking the dedication. Material for the church was secured when a church in Salem was razed. Members of the congregation supplied the labor.

Men, Women Nearly Even In Registration

SUNBURY, Pa., Oct. 8.—Northumberland county voters' registrations show about an equal number of men and women registered in each major party. The registration showed 18,346 men and 17,008 women listed as Republicans and 12,933 men and 11,878 women as Democrats.

The statistics gave significance to the stand of politicians here that universal suffrage meant mainly the doubling of the vote in each household.

Executive Committee Makes Many Plans

Lawrence County Christian Endeavor Union Will Hold Fall Rally

The monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Christian Endeavor Union was held October 6. Reports were made by the various committees and discussed.

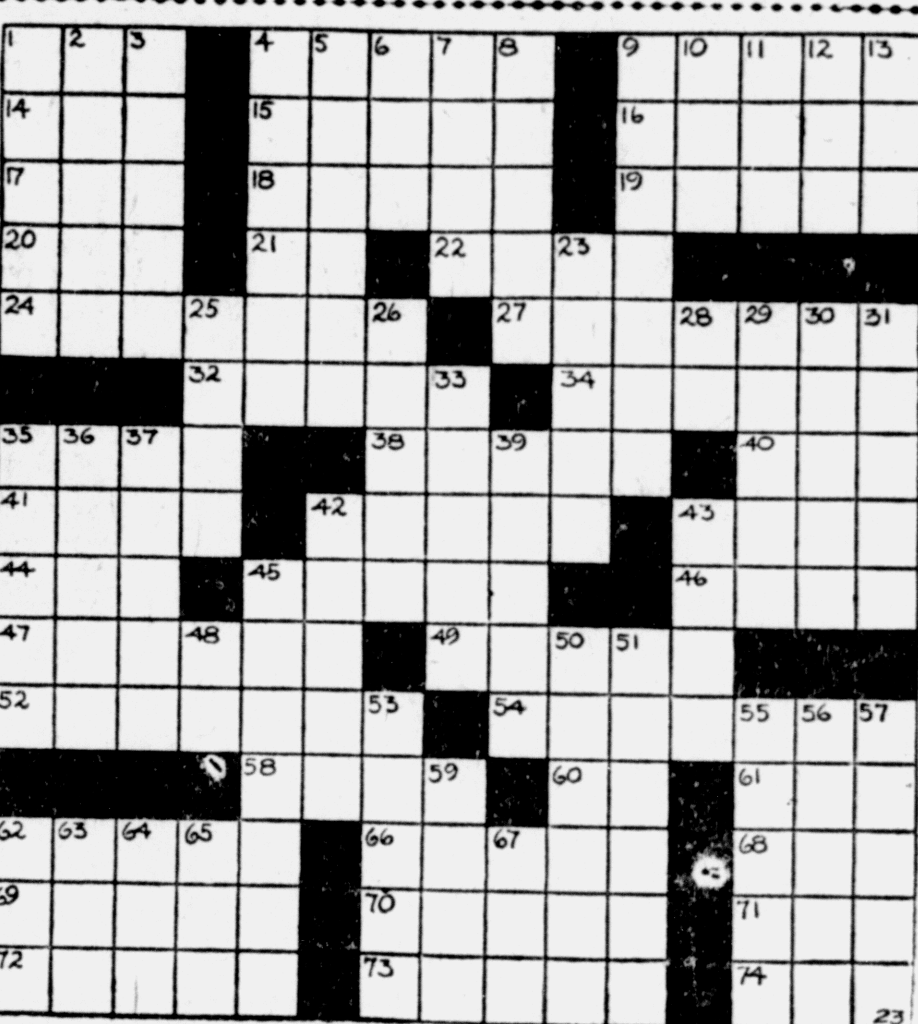

Plans were made for the fall rally which is to be held at the Plaingrove Presbyterian church November 5. A banquet will be served on that evening at 6 p. m.

Institute Group Divides For Special Conferences

High School And Elementary Divisions Hear Different Speakers

FRIDAY'S PROGRAM CLOSES SESSIONS

Two distinct conferences in which the high school and grade school teachers heard two leading educators discuss a subject appropriate to their group, marked Wednesday afternoon's program at the 78th annual Lawrence County Teachers' Institute at the Union high school building, Scotland Lane.

Today the rural instructors were hearing the same speakers in general institute assemblies.

Ellis, Krebs Lead.

Dr. C. C. Ellis, president of Juniata college at Huntingdon, Pa., one of the conference's instructors, led for high school faculty members and supervising principals, discussing "Ethics and Ideals" during the afternoon.

The grade school teachers, also assembled separately, heard Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, president of the Institute of Mercantile Art, who has appeared on the institute program daily, discuss "Happiness in School Life and Work."

In both conferences the speakers dwelt upon themes which had a particular appeal to the groups before whom they spoke.

Earlier in the afternoon, following the dinner period, the teachers had listened to Dr. Ellis present "The Question of the Profession." Dr. F. H. Gaige, of the Millersville State Teachers' college had also spoken on "Unfortunate Characters of History."

A review of the election and ultimate assassination of James A. Garfield as president of the United States was brought by Dr. Gaige in the early morning's address on "A Political Tragedy" while in his afternoon speech on "Unfortunate Characters of History" he touched upon the unhappy life of Mary Todd Lincoln.

The customary music period of the afternoon was led by J. W.

Yoder, of Juniata college, song leader for the week.

Friday's Schedule.

The program for Friday morning's addresses and the closing business session follows:

9 a. m. Devotionals—The Rev. W. H. Fenton, Wampum M. E. church. Music led by J. W. Yoder, conference music director.

"Order and Attention in School and Classroom"—Dr. Stanley L. Krebs.

"The Teacher's Opportunity"—Dr. F. H. Gaige.

Recess.

Music.

V. F. W. Posts To Meet On Rally

Tri-County Council Members Will Gather Here This Evening

Representatives from the various V. F. W. posts in Mercer, Butler and Lawrence counties, together with members of their auxiliaries, will hold a meeting in the Legion Home Association building this evening, when plans will be completed for the big rally to be held in New Castle, Saturday, October 17.

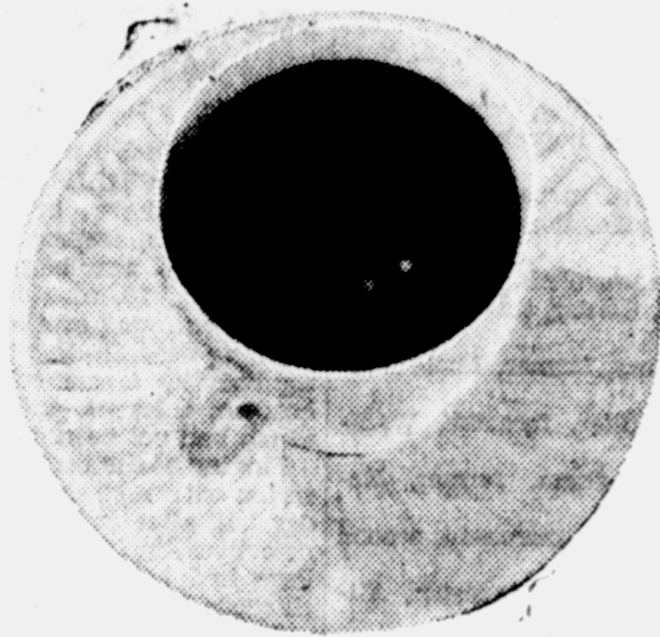

Department Commander O'Donnell of the V. F. W. and State President Ida May Stafford of the Auxiliary will be present, in addition to other officers of the two organizations.

It is expected that a number of representatives of the Vets will be in attendance from posts outside the jurisdiction of the council.

The program will be completed at the meeting tonight. It is expected to hold a parade to be followed by a program in the Carnegie Auditorium.

In conjunction with the rally, a membership drive is being staged, which is expected to bring many new members into the order. This class of candidates will be formally initiated with an open ceremony of the degree work of both the V. F. W. and its Auxiliary.

Free Coal Offer Stands Suspended

Unemployed At Greensburg Fight Over Free Coal And Privilege Is Suspended

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—The privilege of obtaining free coal from a mine, just below the surface, owned by the Vanadium-Alloys Steel company here, today stood suspended as a result of fight among the unemployed who were mining the coal. Shortly after they announced the coal would be given to needy persons who aided in mining it, officials of the company said, disputes broke out among the workers concerning the amount taken by each and priority rights to workings. When several men "staked out claims" and announced they would permit no one else to work in them, the company suspended the free coal offer.

Singers Appear At Junior High Chapel

A vocal program was enjoyed by the George Washington Junior high school students in their assembly period this week, the 10 splendid numbers being contributed by a group of eleven singers under Arthur O. Thomas' direction. The singers, besides Thomas, included Mrs. Betty Thomas, Miss Bernice Carter, Mrs. Thelma Stewart, Ora Jones, Louise Henley, Mildred Henley, T. Stewart, Clarence Ward, William T. Nelson, Wilson C. Nelson and Eleanor Marks, pianist.

Struthers, Ohio, Man Gets Freedom

(International News Service)
KITTANNING, Pa., Oct. 8.—Arraigned on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Ernest Cravenor a month ago, G. Gilotti of Struthers, O., today was freed of the charge. Gilotti was found not guilty on the charge, growing out of Cravenor's death in a motor accident near here. He was ordered to pay costs of prosecution.

MUSEUM OF OLD SHIP MODELS IN HISTORIC SPOT

(International News Service)
NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 8.—As a memorial to the men who raised America to the position of the leading maritime nation of the world, the Marine Historical Association have opened a permanent exhibit of old ship models and marine relics at Mystic, the almost geographical center of early ship-building activities in the country. The gift of Mrs. Mary S. Harkness, of New York, and costing $30,000, adjoins the historic Greenman shipyard, upon which the association plans to construct a large marine museum within the next few years. The original Greenman mill was built there by Mrs. Harkness' grandfather, Thomas S. Greenman. The site for the proposed museum is on a peninsula about 1,000 feet long, surrounded by rolling hills and bordering a deep tidal channel offering excellent facilities for dockage. Since organization, members of the association have made many notable acquisitions including builder's half-models of various kinds, which yearly grow more and more rare.

In the collection of Grosvenor Ely, of Norwich, is a builder's half model of the ship, Seine, built at Essex, Conn., in 1818. A half model of the New York-Liverpool packet, B. D. Metcalf, built in Damariscott, Me., in 1854, is in the collection of Carl C. Butler.

More than 100 originals of ship models and builders' half models, without including 43 Mallory models, were on exhibit at the opening. The list included examples from Maine, to Baltimore, with types ranging from fast catboats to extreme clippers.

Confederate Vet Did Not See Yank In War

PORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 8.—Fort Worth boasts a Confederate veteran who did not see a Yankee throughout the entire Civil War. Sam Harris Chapman, now 87, was a private in a Texas commissary company of cowboys whose duty was to ride the range and assess the ranchers 10 per cent of their beef production for use by the Confederate armies.

Much Gas Used By State Motorists

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 8.—Motorists in Pennsylvania used 928,242,000 gallons of gasoline in 1930, as compared to 924,386,000 gallons in 1929 according to the Automobile Club of Philadelphia.

It was pointed out that for the country as a whole there were 15,761,400,000 gallons of gasoline consumed by motorists in 1930 as compared with 13,962,120,000 gallons in 1929, an increase of 5.3 percent.

The annual consumption of gasoline is four times as much as it was in the ten year period of 1912-31, although the number of motor vehicles has increased only two and a half times.

"This clearly shows," Frank E. Ballantyne, general manager of the club said "that the development of good roads has increased the use of the automobile and that travel horizons have widened."

Sees Planes As Hearse In Future

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Airplanes will supplant automobiles as funeral hearses in the future, Charles L. Reade, of Waltham, told fellow undertakers at a convention. States will set aside monster burying grounds as far as possible from centers of population, and the airplane will be the logical conveyance to use, according to Reade.

Great Britain Would Like To Sit In When Hoover-Laval Confer

British Would Be Glad To Have Representation In Unofficial Capacity

Marquess Of Reading Mentioned As Possible Man To Visit Washington

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Possibility that the forthcoming conversations between Premier Pierre Laval of France and President Hoover in Washington might develop into a three-power conference loomed here today with indications Great Britain was trying to include herself in the meeting.

Official circles pointed out diplomatically that this country would go so far as to suggest her inclusion in the conversations.

Seek Invitation.
Just what steps Britain actually was taking to "wangle" an invitation from Washington could not be ascertained, but well-informed circles reacted with extreme eagerness to questions regarding this country's willingness to participate.

The Marquess of Reading, secretary for foreign affairs in the coalition cabinet, was held to be the logical candidate to represent Britain at the conference should Washington prove sympathetic to British participation.

His name was mentioned prominently not only because of his present official status but because of the fact he is a former British ambassador to the United States and a man of wide experience and capability in handling international affairs.

Reading in Paris.
In this connection, Lord Reading's present visit to Paris was cloaked with renewed significance.

Since his arrival in the French capital on Tuesday, he has been in constant touch with Premier Laval and members of the French cabinet.

It was reported yesterday he had formulated a plan of his own for world financial reconstruction, to be submitted to President Hoover by Premier Laval in the name of Great Britain if it met with French approval.

PRISONERS TAKEN TO WORKS TODAY

Deputy Sheriff Russell McBride this morning took Joe Faber and Joe Kinkela to the Allegheny county workhouse. Faber was sentenced for three months for keeping a disorderly house, and Kinkela for one year for assaulting Chief of Police A. A. Shoup of Bessemer. The assault was made with an iron bar, after Kinkela had broken out of the Bessemer lockup.

CAMERON EXPENSE ACCOUNT IS FILED

Expense account of Donald Lee Cameron, candidate for county commissioner at the recent primary, was filed yesterday at the prothonotary's office. It showed that Cameron expended $243.80, for advertising and cards. There are still several expense accounts to be filed, notwithstanding that the time for filing them has expired.

Alleged Chicken Thief Is Slain

Philip Smith, Farmer Near Buena Vista, Pa., Kills Alleged Prowler

BODY IS FOUND ALONG HIGHWAY

(International News Service)

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 8.—Believed to have been killed by Philip Smith, farmer living near Buena Vista, near here, the body of John Pegg, 18, of Kneister, early today was found on the edge of the highway near Smith's home. Near the body lay a sack containing four headless chickens, and a revolver which had not been discharged.

Smith reported to authorities he was awakened early today by a disturbance near his chicken house. Seizing a 38 calibre revolver, he told detectives, he fired two shots in the direction of the chicken house, the disturbance subsided and he returned to sleep.

Pegg's body was found by a passing motorist who reported it to authorities here and reports spread immediately the victim had been "taken for a ride" by gangsters. County detectives who learned of the shooting from Smith, however, indicated they believed Pegg was a member of a band of chicken thieves and was killed by the farmer while robbing his chicken house.

Speaker Tells Need For Vision In Age Of Big Competition

James C. Mace, Radio Speaker, Describes Vision Of Paul, Moses

"We live in a day when we need the spark of vision for future vocation and service," declared James C. "Pop" Mace, former religious work secretary of the downtown Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A. and teacher of the international Sunday Bible Class broadcast in an address before the young men's clubs at the local "Y" last night.

The talk followed a dinner and entertainment by "Y" leaders. Declaring that we are living on the labor of the great of countless past generations, Mace added:

"We are here with no effect whatsoever of our own. We are living in the greatest moment of history, and our lives today are made easier because we are enjoying the efforts of our predecessors. We travel highways literally saturated with the blood of past generations. We live in homes we did not build. We travel on bridges built by others, highways laid out by someone else—everything brought to our everyday lives by others."

In order to appreciate these conveniences we should vision future vocation as a means of serving others, Mace said. He pointed to the lives of Moses and Paul as that of men who visioned the spark of future vocation.

In this age of keen competition the need of correct vocation is apparent, Mace said, because 85 per cent of the young men of today are holding down wrong jobs.

The speaker was introduced by R. L. Meermans. Bruce Ewing president of Phalanx fraternity presided. Paul Alfred of the Phalanx presented a cornet solo, assisted by Ralph Hoffman at the piano. Harry and Henry Wyman of the Uparatasa fraternity gave a vocal duet. R. E. Johns led the pep singing, and was assisted by Judy Sypher.

Young Man Will Become Minister

Grandson Of Mr. And Mrs. F. W. Pennington Leaves For New York

News that Ralph Hovencamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hovencamp, of Portsmouth, Ohio, has left for Annandale on the Hudson, New York, to study for the ministry, will be of interest to New Castle people.

Young Hovencamp's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pennington live at 616 Sennet street, New Castle. His mother will be remembered as Lillian Pennington and although she has never lived in this city, she has often visited with her family.

Hovencamp will attend St. Stephen's Episcopal college the coming fall and winter. He has been an altar boy at All Saints church for the last six years. He was graduated from Portsmouth high school last June.

TRESPASSERS PROFITED
(International News Service)
WELLINGBOROUGH, Eng.—Tired of having his apple trees stripped of their fruit by trespassers, Sidney Wood, Wellingborough farmer, pinned up this notice: "Next time you come, remember there are plenty of potatoes, gladioli and chrysanthemums." A week later he found that the notice had been taken to heart—rows of potatoes had been dug up and quantities of blooms picked.

SAYS TRAFFIC COP'S GOING
(International News Service)
BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The "traffic cop" may soon disappear from view. This is the belief of Dr. Miller McClintock, director of the Erskine Bureau of Harvard University. With the application of automatic control mechanisms and with the use of better street design making it increasingly difficult for a driver to make the wrong move, traffic officers will lose many of their punitive and directive functions and become technicians in control of traffic robots, he holds.

BOMBS DROPPED BY JAP FLIERS

(International News Service)
PEIPING, Oct. 8.—Japanese anti-aircraft guns were set up in the legation quarter here today after Chinese airplanes had maneuvered in the vicinity, arousing fears of a possible attack among Japanese military authorities.

The guns were mounted outside the former Austrian legation, the Japanese military headquarters, a few hundred feet from the office of the American naval attaché. Chinese officials here denied there was any cause for alarm, stating the airplanes were engaged in routine maneuvers.

Bombs Dropped.
TOKIO, Oct. 8.—Forty bombs were dropped on Chinese troops at Yichang, near Mukden, by Japanese airplanes, after they were fired upon by the Chinese, according to a dispatch today from Mukden.

The Chinese, commanded by General Wang, were routed, but the number of casualties was not reported.

MERCER NEWS

The 14 head of pure bred Jersey cows at the Mercer sanitarium have made a record for milk and butter fat production that places them at the top not only in this section but in the country.

They produced an average of 9290 pounds of milk and 504 pounds of butter fat on a twice a day milking schedule, the record for 1930. This is based on the fiscal year record to July 1 and is based on the monthly reports.

The outstanding cow of the herd is "Clara Bow". She is a 600-pound animal and made 9948 pounds of milk and 607.4 pounds of butter fat. Her record held up that of the 13 other milkers to a point where it is said that they will compare very favorably with any herd in the state.

A great critic really has something. You couldn't make people pay you handsomely for sneering at them.

It may be just a coated tongue tonight... with dull eyes, bad color and breath. But by these symptoms Nature is telling you that you may have a sick child tomorrow. Help tonight is simple. Tomorrow it may be harder. A single simple dose of Castoria is usually all that's needed to bring relief; it often keeps a serious illness from developing. Castoria, you know, is the children's own remedy—made specially to give the gentle help their delicate organs must have. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

In any starting illness such as a cold, a little fever, a food upset, a first-aid dose of Castoria is always a wise precaution.

It's never hard to get children to take Castoria. They love its taste, and are grateful for the relief it always brings to tied-up systems.

For babies or for older children, depend on Castoria's gentle regulation. It has kept many a little ailment from growing into a serious one! Genuine Castoria always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

Borah Never Will Seek Presidential Office, Newspapermen Conclude

"Let Folk Speculate," Says Senator From Idaho When Asked Concerning White House Attitude

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Senator William E. Borah, when in Washington, holds regular "conferences," so called, with the newspaper men, just as President Hoover does, and the senator's conferences rival the president's, as to the number of correspondents who attend them.

Attendance at the president's has dwindled since his first few months in office, for Mr. Hoover seldom has much to say. He frequently has highly important information to give out, but generally this class of matter is distributed among the reporters by executive underlings, in the form of mimeographed statements. If the president would supplement these statements with an occasional snappy remark, when he sees the chronicles, he could draw them to his receptions in crowds, but he hardly ever does; does not care for crowds, perhaps.

Senator Borah issues statements also—carbon copies, for he's a poor man and can't stand the expense of mimeographing. Consequently there usually are not enough to go around and the correspondents fight for them.

Aside from his statements, however, there is inspiration in the senator's personality. One may disagree with him violently and yet be electrified by the fashion in which he expresses himself.

Moreover, he has thrilling potentialities.

For example:

His recent return to the capital from Idaho followed, by but a day of two, the appearance of Mr. Coolidge's article eliminating himself as a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination in 1932, thus practically extinguishing all idea of serious competition for Mr. Hoover—except in the event of a decision by Senator Borah to enter the race.

True, no trustworthy political prophet actually predicts such a thing.

Still, there is breath taking excitement in the mere thought of the extent to which he would rip next year's G. O. P. convention open, should he yield to the importunities of progressives who want to launch his candidacy.

Consequently, accommodations were at a premium at the Idaho statesman's initial autumn meeting, in his suite in the senate office building, with members of the Washington journalistic corps—some 30 of them, fully as many as at an average White House audience of the same sort.

Senator Borah's appearance often is described as "leonine."

It is not, a bit, except that he has a rather shaggy head of hair—graying over his ears and with a bald spot about the size of a silver dollar exactly atop of his cranium. He probably is unconscious of it. It is not so situated as to show, looking dead ahead into a mirror.

What the senator's face does suggest is a bulldog's, even to a slight upward twitch at the left-hand corner of the upper lip, revealing an ominous fighting tooth now and again.

Yet the bulldog, unaroused, is a kindly creature (Dr. Austin Clark, premier naturalist at the Smithsonian Institution, maintains that all animals of great strength and courage are) whose blunt, homely, craggy visage reflects a gentle soul—as does Senator Borah's until some one really needs to be chewed up, when he is thoroughly competent to attend to that, too.

"Senator," began one of the scribes, "folk are speculating considerably concerning your presidential attitude."

"Let 'em speculate," grinned the senator.

That, in effect, was as far as that line of questioning progressed. There was more talk, but it arrived nowhere, and the understanding was that the Idahoan was not to be quoted anyway, beyond his typewritten statements, and those already have been telegraphed hither and yon.

The net conclusion is that it is mighty unlikely Senator Borah ever will be a candidate for any future nomination other than for the senate again, upon his current term's expiration.

As to the presidency, this undoubtedly is his last chance, for he will be past 70 by the 1936 convention, and that traditionally is too old.

It is, of course, improbable, besides, that he could take the nomination from Mr. Hoover now. That he could split the party wide open and destroy the Californian's last hope of re-election is, rather, the argument which the progressives advance—but to do so would be at the expense of his prestige, not theirs. And no one ever has accused the Idahoan of indifference to his own political interests, which he understands exceedingly well.

Prohibition was the subject of fully one-half the conversation at the conference.

In my opinion there is not a dryer man in public life than Senator Borah.

He is no pussyfoot. He always implies unmistakably that he might vote for a satisfactory substitute for the present system, were one offered, but the inference is equally plain that the chances are around 1,000 to 1 against the prospect that such a substitute will be found—that is, a substitute satisfactory to him.

Will he support Mr. Hoover for re-election?

Had it been anyone else who painted the gloomy picture of economic conditions that he painted at that conference, I am sure the answer of any listener would have been an emphatic "No."

But this was Senator Borah. He always says such things between campaigns; the campaign's opening always finds him as regular as regularity can be.

Despite his recitation of lamentable facts, I observed that he uttered not a syllable which could commit him to a criticism of anyone as responsible for them.

Pioneer Lost Profit On Beds

Make Them Too Big For Doors And So Lost Money

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 8.—Herman Graaf, Montana pioneer, was paid $100 each for beds he made from packing boxes during the early days—and failed to make a profit.

Graaf, a German emigrant boy, drifted into Helena, Mont., in 1870. He had learned to be a cabinet maker in Germany and after an unsuccessful try at gold panning, decided to return to his trade.

A dance hall proprietor wanted eight black walnut beds made and offered to pay Graaf $800 to build them. Graaf accepted readily because at that time black walnut was so plentiful in the United States it was used to crate furniture which was shipped "knocked down" to the west.

Graaf set to work, expecting to realize a nice profit from his venture. He made the beds and set them up.

But when he attempted to deliver them he saw his chances for a profit fade.

Through his lack of knowledge of the English language, Graaf had misunderstood the dance hall owner and had built the beds for the wrong houses and found that they would not go through the doors of the cabins.

Undaunted, Graaf proceeded to remove the roof of the one-story cabins and lowered the beds into place. But he had to hire help and the expense was so great that he did not make a dollar.

MILLBURN

Mt. Union School, Mrs. Kenneth Redmond teacher, observed Farm and Home Day on Friday, Oct. 2, with a picnic dinner, an interesting program consisting of recitations, dialogues and music, and a very attractive display of farm products. The school room was appropriately decorated and a large and appreciative audience of patrons were present to enjoy the day. This school has the largest enrollment in years and partly to the fact that Millburn school, the other district in Millburn neighborhood, which was closed several years ago on account of scarcity of pupils is now sending a car full of children to Mt. Union.

Mrs. Frank Woods, Mrs. Wm. Cox, and Mrs. Samuel Drake attended the meeting of the White Chapel Missionary society on Thursday of last week when the ladies were entertained at New Wilmington by Mrs. J. B. Comstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Heasley of Meadville spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Drake, Mr. Heasley assisting in corn cutting. Sunday guests in the Drake home were their son Hiram and brother Hiram Drake and wife of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine of Tarentum, Mrs. Whitney of Kittanning and Mr. and Mrs. Young of Wampum were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Patterson.

Mildred Cummings who has been quite ill is much improved at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ramsay and children visited Mrs. Ramsay's parents in Sharon Sunday.

Five of the men employed in the advertising department of the Sun-Telegraph of Pittsburgh spent the week end in the Butler home.

Mrs. Guy Thompson, daughter Helen and son Paul are visiting friends in Smetport for a few days.

Rev. and Mrs. Melcher of Grove City called in the Blumenshine and Metzgar homes one day last week.

Geo. Barber has moved his family from Pittsburgh to Leesburg where he has secured work.

Mrs. Mable Munnell of Mercer spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Stephen Lukacs. Stephen Lukacs carried mail for Wm. Creighton on R. F. D. 6 several days last week.

Mrs. Emma A. Hartt and Miss Cora Hartt of Erie visited J. P. Hartt and family on Saturday. John Lukacs returned to Erie with them for a short visit.

Ruth Brenneman of Ellport was a week end guest of her sister Mrs. W. L. Mayne.

M. B. Orr and wife spent Sunday with their son and daughter at Rouseville. John Orr attended church in Sharon Sunday and accompanied his daughter and family from there to their home in Ohio for a week's visit.

Mrs. Linus Stewart and sons attended the observance of Parent Day at Slippery Rock College on Saturday.

Mrs. John Woods of Grove City spent Wednesday with Mrs. Merle Robinson and with the latter called on Mrs. Carmen Hawthorne of Leesburg in the afternoon.

The Misses Edith and Esther Drake spent the week end with their parents. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Drake and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Drake drove them to Freeport where Miss Esther teaches.

The total eclipse of the sun next August may be broadcast by television. It will be almost as interesting as an exhibition of midnight.

Rabbi Grossfield To Preach Sermon From Genesis Friday

Friday evening in Temple Israel Rabbi A. J. Grossfield will preach a sermon from the second and third chapters of the Book of Genesis and in his discourse he will answer some intriguing questions that have long bothered thinking students of the Bible. The sermon topic will be "Folk Tales in Ancient Israel." At the close of the service the members of Temple Israel and their friends will enjoy an hour of fellowship in the vestry rooms of the Temple, with Mr. and Mrs. William Blau as hosts. The flowers that will adorn the pulpit Friday will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Kalish in loving memory of their mother, Lena Kalish, the anniversary of whose death occurs this week.

LANTERN LECTURE FOR HAPPY HOUR AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Thirty beautifully colored slides of the life of the great pioneer missionary to Africa, David Livingstone, will be shown at the Happy Hour for boys and girls, Friday evening from seven to eight o'clock at the First Baptist church.

Over one hundred were present at the opening meeting of the Happy Hour, last Friday evening. The boyhood Christian training voyage to Africa, and many of David Livingstone's adventures in the dark Continent will be thrown upon the screen, including his escape from a wounded lion and from other perils of the jungle. No admission is charged and no collection is received.

Most European countries would enjoy a few years of the kind of "depression" now found in this country.—The Charleston (S. C.) Evening Post.

...sparkling vitality and a clear skin reflect rich, red blood cells

"It is good of you to say those nice things," she replied.

Some people just "bubble over" with vitality . . . they inspire compliments.

Nature has its own way of making a strong body and a clear skin . . . by its use of the red-blood-cells.

So often the pressure of work and worry or some sickness "burn up" these precious red-blood-cells—then the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter?"

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness.

A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health in various manifestations.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count (Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, slow complexion, pimples and boils. Don't let them count you out!

Pennsy Signal Tower Operator Is Hero Today

Shunts Special Train Carrying Cardinals Off Main Line Track Because Of Accident

TWO MEN KILLED IN AUTO PLUNGE

(International News Service) LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 8.—A Pennsylvania railroad signal tower operator who threw a switch and shunted the special train of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team onto a siding, after an automobile accident blocked the path, was a hero today.

Two men were killed in the auto collision and another is in Lancaster hospital today in a critical condition.

Less than two minutes before the Cardinals' special passed, Leaman place, where the Lincoln highway crosses the railroad main line between Philadelphia and Harrisburg, the collision occurred.

According to police, an automobile driven by Alexander Golden of New York, sideswiped a car containing three men. Golden's car remained on the bridge while the other plunged through a bridge wall and fell thirty-five feet to the railroad tracks below on the same track which carried the St. Louis special.

Special Side-tracked P. E. Beane, of Paradise, who heard the crash, called the signal tower. William Trout, operator of the tower, threw the block signal lights to "slow" just as the train came into sight. The engineer of the special slowed down, and Trout threw a switch. The train went past the wreckage on a parallel track. Further on, it was shunted back to the original track. It continued on its journey without stopping.

No one on the special, with the exception of the engineer and firemen, knew of the possible disaster which had been averted.

Lancaster police learned the three men were driving to St. Louis to witness the next game between the Athletics and Cardinals. They had tickets in their possession.

Air Mail Cited As Carried Back In 1820

It Was "By Balloon And Did Not Go Very Far

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Although the twentieth anniversary of the first air mail flight in America was celebrated on September 23 at Roosevelt Field, it was not actually the twentieth anniversary but the 102d. In September 1820, Paul Dumont, a New York merchant, announced he would make a balloon flight with mail from the Battery. He did not fix a destination, but carried letters addressed to Connecticut, New Jersey and up-state New York. He also carried a letter to King Charles X of France in case he was blown across the sea. On the appointed day with flourishes and fanfare, Mr. Dumont brought his balloon to the sea wall and loaded it with sixty pounds of mail. New York newspapers provided him with six carrier pigeons so that he could report his progress.

The balloon rose fifty feet, then faltered and started to fall. Mr. Dumont threw out his ballast and finally jettisoned the mail sack which dropped into the bay. Relieved of its load, the balloon sailed away amid cheers and landed near Perth Amboy, N. J. Fishermen with boathooks rescued the mail which, it is pointed out, takes priority over the first airmail carried by Earle Ovington, in September, 1911, by eighty-two years.

Mr. Dumont, with his balloon on an ox-cart, returned three days after and received the first welcome home reception New York City ever accorded an aviator. Newspapers of the day carried columns of it.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned. It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name "Carter's Little Liver Pills" on the red label. Repeat a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. C.

Says Road Signs Have Authority

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 8.—Motorists are warned by the Automobile Club of Philadelphia that the familiar "Caution Road Repairs" sign along the highway has more authority under the present motor vehicle code than previously.

The warning was issued by F. E. Ballantyne, general manager of the club, following several arrests in various parts of the state of persons who admitted passing the signs.

"Section 1008 of the code," he said, "makes it unlawful for a motorist to pass a caution sign on the road. The change was made not only to protect the working men of the Highway Department but also the motorists themselves."

Attended Funeral, Later Found Dead

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Eva Montgomery of Raymont, Venango county, was found dead in bed at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cora Wike of Hendersville yesterday, after she had attended a funeral in her home community and came to her daughter's home for a visit.

Mrs. Montgomery had suffered from heart trouble for some time, but her condition gave no indication of being critical up to the time of her death.

Over-Production Evil Ruins Coal Industry

Situation Can Be Cleared Up Through Method Of Curbing Over-Production

Many Believe That Government Would Put Industry Back On Its Feet

By C. EDWARD MORRIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1931 by International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—Nothing short of a major operation can restore that mighty sick monarch, King Coal, to vigorous health. The industrial doctors agree that a course of treatment drastically different from anything thus far tried must be found to stabilize his vast realm, in which more than 125,000 miners face starvation and hundreds of mine owners are fighting off bankruptcy.

The patient's grave danger is made manifest by the fact that the most expert diagnosticians disagree violently as to which of several operations should be performed.

Government Control
One group, including the United Mine Workers of America, several operators, both large and small, and the American Federation of Labor, contends that nothing but government regulation of the king's conduct can save him from his own follies.

Another group favors interstate control, made possible through cooperation of governors, miners and operators.

A third argues that only the operators understand the king's complicated ailments clearly enough to effect a cure.

Must Find Cure
John D. A. Morrow, president of the $165,000,000 Pittsburgh Coal Co., is among those who believe that King Coal's own subjects must themselves find the cure for their monarch.

"The best thing that could happen to the soft coal industry," he said to the writer, "would be for President Hoover to get up on his hind legs and say to the operators who run to Washington with their troubles:

"To Hell with you! Go work out your own problems!"

"Even Uncle Sam can't repeal the law of supply and demand," was Morrow's answer to a question about a government-aided production curtailment program.

Over-Production
Any cure for the soft coal industry must deal not only with actual over-production today, but also with potential over-production in the future.

"If the United States government wants to tackle that problem, one of the underlying causes of continued instability in the soft coal industry, there is one way it could do so; that would be to buy up coal lands and add them to 30,000,000 acres of such lands already in the public domain.

When it came to the questions of how the coal industry is to be cured and when its recovery may be expected Mr. Morrow—like other operators, union officials, government experts and state officials with whom the writer talked during a 3,000-mile trip through the four states which produce 70 per cent of America's soft coal, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky—had less confident answers ready.

Will Take Miracle
"Time," temporized the president of the second largest coal producing company in the United States, "is a vital element in a chemical reaction, isn't it? Well, it's an equally important factor in the search for a cure for the long ailing soft coal industry.

"I, for one, do not believe in industrial miracles nor in any overnight cure-all for the coal industry. Most of the so-called 'plans' for stabilizing it fall apart when tested in a practical laboratory.

Dr. Harry Woods
At First Church

Friday evening at 7:30 preparatory services will be held in the First Presbyterian church with Dr. Harry Woods, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Sharpsville as the guest speaker.

The group leaders of the church have been at work this week and it is expected the entire congregation will attend this service to prepare for the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, which will be administered Sunday.

Twenty-five new members, who have been enrolled since the last communion service, will be welcomed into the church at the Sunday morning service.

Dr. J. A. Alexander
At Highland Church

Dr. J. A. Alexander of Pittsburgh, Synodical superintendent of the Pittsburgh Synod, will be the guest preacher Sunday at the Highland Presbyterian church, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. C. J. Williamson, who is in Des Moines, Iowa, attending a session of the General Synod.

Dr. Alexander will preach at the 11 a. m. service and at the vesper service at 5 p. m.

Trinity Men's Club Plans For Years Program

Activities Will Start In The Present Month And Continue Throughout Year

Members of the executive committee of the Men's Club of Trinity Episcopal church met last evening at the church with Gates Griffith, the president presiding.

It was decided that the club would assist in the dinner meeting to be held October 21 for the every member canvass to be held this year and which is under the supervision of Lewis L. Lewis, chairman of the canvass. The speakers for the evening will be Dr. Martin Aigner, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Franklin, Pa., and Cyrus F. Mackay of Franklin, secretary and treasurer of the Laymen's League of the Diocese of Erie. Louis B. Round will be a third speaker.

The club will sponsor the parish supper to be held October 28. On November 18, there will be a get-together affair for the parish and club when the report of the every member canvass will be made.

On the second Wednesday of December, there will be an event for the Boy Scout troop of the church sponsored by the club. In January on the third Wednesday there will be an entertainment and a visit to the Bell Telephone company office.

There will be no social activities in February and March on account of Lent. The club will sponsor the annual Mothers and Daughters dinner in April. In May there will be the annual dinner of the club and the election of officers.

QUARTERLY MEETING AT DEWEY AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH

The first quarterly meeting of the conference year will be held in the Dewey Avenue Free Methodist church this week beginning Friday evening and continuing through Sunday.

Mrs. W. J. Barkas, of Eldred, wife of the district elder, will conduct the meeting. She is an able speaker and great crowds greet her wherever she appears.

Rev. W. J. Barkas will conduct the quarterly meeting in Ellwood City while Mrs. Barkas is here.

Hope For Edison Is Given Up, May Lapse Into Coma

Thomas A. Edison, World Famous Inventor Hovers Between Life And Death Today

UNABLE TO TAKE ANY NOURISHMENT

(International News Service)
WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 8.—Thomas A. Edison today hovered between life and death on the verge of a coma from which his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, did not believe he would recover.

The aged inventor was unable to take any nourishment, or sit up without support, a bulletin issued at his home stated.

Henry Ford, an old friend of Edison, telephoned several times from Detroit, asking about his condition.

Passes Fair Night
WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 8.—Thomas A. Edison was reported to have passed a fairly comfortable night last night, though his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, held out no hope for his recovery.

Dr. Howe called at the aged inventor's home at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The bulletin on Edison's condition was to be sent to President Herbert Hoover, who requested yesterday that all such bulletins be telephoned immediately to the White House.

New Director Comes To Y. W.

Mrs. W. J. Hutchinson Assumes Duties; Health Classes Commence Today

Mrs. Walter J. Hutchinson, the newly appointed director of gymnasium and health classes at the Y. W. C. A., was at her office this morning and commenced her new duties.

This is a day of activities in the health education department for it is the first day of the 1931 fall gym season. Classes are being organized today and Saturday and Mrs. Hutchinson expects to have the classes well underway next week.

The new director comes here from Ithaca, N. Y., and has had experience in teaching in Ithaca and Cortland, N. Y. Those who have met her at the "Y" today have been very pleased with her likeable personality and are looking forward to a very splendid season under her supervision.

In the schedule published recently it was stated that there are two Tuesday gym classes. There are no Tuesday classes scheduled as yet. The correct schedule is as follows:

Thursday—Health class at 9:30 a. m.; gym class at 10:30 a. m.; health class at 7:00 p. m., and gym class at 8:00 p. m.

Saturday—Children's gym class at 10:00 a. m.

Referring to the health and gym classes starting today, Mrs. Hutchinson calls to the attention of local women that this is a splendid opportunity to reduce safely and wisely.

"If only ten pounds overweight," the director says, "Join the class and lose that extra weight. You say 'Not for just ten pounds!' But if you are ten pounds overweight it is safe to conclude that some day soon that ten will be twenty."

"Thus will Father Time multiply it and before you realize you will have lost that youthful elasticity in the knee joint and the spring in your step—all because you did not check that first ten pounds. That is more truth than poetry. You will not only lose weight but your efficiency will be developed, your endurance will have been multiplied and your muscles will be hardened—all of which spell health for the individual."

The director asks that all women or children interested in any of these classes call the Y. W. C. A. this week.

Boy Scout News
PARADE FOR "CHEST"

New Castle Boy Scout troops are to join together Saturday morning to march in the parade boosting this year's Community Chest drive. They will form a line at the First Christian church on the public square, marching later to the North Jefferson-Falls street intersection where the main body of the parade will organize.

Many of the city's scouts will also be in line with the junior and senior high school bands that will take part. Both junior high bands will parade as well as the senior high school musicians.

FIRST REPORT SOON.
Scout headquarters today announced that on Saturday it will make public the first news concerning the three-month troop efficiency contest, which commenced October 1. Each troop is sending its weekly reports to the office for compilation into a county-wide summary.

Seek To Avert Cannon Probe

Attorneys Attempt To Halt Probe Of Bishop's Handling Of Political Funds

Counsel For Methodist Church Head Challenges Right Of Authorities

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Attorneys for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the M. E. Church, South, today sought to prevent Federal grand jury inquiry into his handling of anti-Smith campaign funds in Virginia during the 1928 presidential race.

Robert H. MacNeill, the bishop's chief counsel, filed a brief with the U. S. attorney here, challenging his right to investigate Cannon's political activities. MacNeill declared there wasn't a "scintilla" of evidence to show Cannon had failed to properly account for campaign funds and that the Federal government had no control over the election, since presidential electors were state officers under a supreme court decision.

However, Assistant District Attorney John J. Wilson began summoning witnesses before the grand jury, which started its investigation today.

Mr. Untermyer, who thinks good times wait on thrift, probably heard about that policeman who saved $40,000 a year from a salary of $175 a month.

Government Must Act If The Charities Fail Declares Hamilton Fish

New York Representative Urges Billion-Dollar Bond Issue For Public Construction To Aid In Unemployment Situation

By HAMILTON FISH, Jr.,
Representative From New York

We are in the midst of a world-wide depression which affects millions of American wage earners and causes distress and dread throughout the land. It is an appalling and almost inconceivable fact that there are 5,000,000 unemployed in the United States, with the probability that there will be several additional millions before the winter is over.

These unemployed must be assured that no member of their family will be permitted to starve or suffer from the rigors of our climate during the winter months in this country our ours with an overabundance of wheat and other foodstuffs.

We must destroy the fear of insecurity, no matter what the cost may be, that an ample supply of foodstuffs will be furnished all unemployed American wage earners during the emergency.

In the last session of congress I introduced a resolution that wheat held in storage by the federal government should be turned over to the Red Cross to be processed into flour and distributed by the various charitable organizations throughout the United States.

The Federal Stabilization Board owns 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, and all of this, if necessary, should be made available to the Red Cross without delay. It is the prime function of government to provide for the safety, happiness and security of its people. I have no patience with any other philosophy of government, or any attempt to hide behind the federal constitution.

If private charity is not sufficient to carry the burden and provide for the hungry and clothe and house the destitute, then it is clearly the duty of the federal, state and municipal governments to contribute their full share and assume their proper responsibilities. Failure of the federal government in this crisis not to exert its utmost efforts to help relieve suffering and misery, would be a fatal indictment against the administration at Washington, and even against our republican form of government.

We are the richest nation in the world and have an overabundance of wheat, coal and lumber, and the federal government does not propose to permit any American citizens to starve or freeze to death during this period of world-wide depression. Every citizen has a clear-cut duty to give according to means, and to give until it hurts, in order to relieve the distress and starvation among our own people. There is more truth than fiction in the old proverb that "charity begins at home."

The appropriation of $500,000,000 by the last congress for public buildings was a step in the right direction, but it should be doubled by the congress that meets in December. An additional billion dollars should be made available immediately for the construction of highways, public buildings and waterways, and other needed improvements and public works. Labor is not asking for a dole, but an opportunity to work. This opportunity must be afforded, even if it takes a billion dollar bond issue, and a heavy increase in inheritance taxes on large fortunes. There can be no return to prosperity in the United States until labor is employed at substantial wages and has a buying power.

Prosperity cannot be obtained by decrees or resolutions. The only way in the United States today is the ways and means of providing jobs for the 5,000,000 unemployed. Charity is not the answer, but work is, and must be provided by the federal, state and municipal governments.

THREE NATIONS NOW LAY CLAIM TO HAYDN, GENIUS

Spring Festival To Celebrate
200th Anniversary
Of Birth

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Oct. 8.—Preparations for the great Haydn music festival next Spring in celebration of the 200th anniversary of the composer's birth have given rise to a bitter controversy regarding the composer's origin.

A sensation has been caused by a book of the noted Slav historian and philologist Professor Dedaeus, which undertakes to prove that Haydn's father was a gypsy. Therefore, Prof. Dedaeus asserts, the composer's genius was inherited from a musical and music-loving race.

The gypsies are elated with the book.

But three other nations and peoples are claiming Haydn: the Croats, because Haydn's name is believed to be of Croatian origin; the Hungarians because the birthplace of the composer was Rohrau on the Hungarian side of the Austro-Hungarian frontier, and finally the Austrians because of cultural reasons coupled with the fact that Haydn lived in Eisenstadt for 50 years.

Haydn is said to have felt himself an Austrian and his music is generally accepted as belonging to the era of Mozart, Beethoven and Schubert, who as a group form what is called "the Austrian music."

There were not so many claimants before Haydn's death. And many innocent bystanders of the present controversy repeat the story: "Seven cities claimed Homer dead, through which Homer living begged his bread."

Haydn composed the old Imperial anthem of Austria which was banned by the Republican revolution of 1918. It was readopted, however, last year with a different text. Formerly it began: "God save our Emperor."

The new words, written by the Austrian clergyman Ottokar Kernstock, avoid every mention of the Imperial past, and lead off with "God Save Our President."

City School Safeguards Tot's Health

Wholesome Parental Attitude Is Asset For Child

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Thirty years ago in our public school system, only Johnny's mind went to school. Now the whole child goes—body, mind and soul. With the enormous increase in the attendance at public schools, teaching school has become the largest business of the state. About a fourth of the population is under the states' care for about a fourth of the time five days a week.

This enormous responsibility is handled from the point of view of the scholar's hygiene, very successfully. But good habits in school, health habits, posture habits can be broken by careless supervision at home. For that reason let us examine some of the principles of school sanitation in order that discipline at home may help and not hinder the school authorities.

Much of the aptness of the child's work at school is determined by his life at home. This includes the nourishing quality of the food, the amount of sleep, the ventilation of the bed chamber and other such things—the presence of harmony, the absence of strife, the encouragement to study and yet not over-encouragement or insistence on scholastic honors and success for their own sakes. In short, a wholesome parental attitude is the most valuable asset the child can have in facing the troubles and triumphs of school life.

Fatigue is probably the greatest enemy of the school child. The complaint of fatigue in a child is always a sign of danger—for the active young organism should not know what it means.

Home work must be regulated so the child has a certain amount of time in which to do what it likes. Initiative and self-reliance can be developed only in that way.

Too exciting a life away from school is not good. The competition and contacts of school are themselves exciting. And too much radio or movies or anything of that sort which does not originate inside the child's own imagination is likely to fatigue a sensitive young nervous system. The talkies are to the emotional life of a child what candy is to its nutritional life.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
J. D. "What is the cause of some men having to shave before others do? Is this due to any condition of the blood?"

"What is albumin, and what is its purpose?"
Answer: 1. Early maturity of hair growth on the male face is usually accompanied by early maturity of the whole body. The opposite applies to late appearance of a heavy beard. In the sense you mean it is not due to any condition of the blood.

2. Albumin is the name given to many forms of protein food. Its role in nutrition is to build tissue and to some extent furnish energy. If you mean albumin in the urine, this is due in most cases to disease of the kidneys; sometimes to disease of other parts of the body (i. e. pneumonia); occasionally as for the so-called functional albuminuria of young people it is probably of no serious significance.

Spiritual Advisor Of Irene And Dague Gets Into Trouble

Rev. Harold O. Teagarden Arrested After Fight Near Church Pulpit

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Oct. 8.—Rev. Harold O. Teagarden, Methodist minister, who was expelled from the Northeastern Ohio conference several years ago, following newspaper accounts revealing that he would attempt to swim the Cataline Island channel for publicity, and who was spiritual advisor of Glenn Dague and Irene Schroeder, while they were in the New Castle jail and at Rockview death house, was arrested here today for attacking an elder of the Sewellsville Methodist church last Sunday.

The alleged assault occurred in front of the entire congregation. L. C. Hoffman, the elder, filed the charges, declaring Teagarden attacked him when he objected to the postponement of a Sunday school election.

The former pastor is said to have seized Hoffman by the throat and forced him over a seat near the pulpit, choking him until he was black in the face. He said he was rescued by the congregation.

Rev. Ray Smith, pastor of the church, is said to have upheld Teagarden's actions and will testify at the trial that Hoffman started the altercation. The church has been divided for some time over organizational matters.

Rev. Cox Elected As "Shantytown" Mayor

Well Known Pittsburgh Priest Elected To Mayor's Post In Colony

Buck Crouse Is Made Chief Of Police—Asks Citizens To Keep Things Clean

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—The Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's church here and noted figure in civic affairs, has a new job.

He is the first mayor of "Shantytown."

By unanimous vote and with no chance of a recount being demanded, Father Cox was named by the 200 residents of "Shantytown," the hodge-podge colony of decrepit shacks where jobless men have taken up residence.

The election, however, wasn't held in an altogether altruistic spirit.

The land on which "Shantytown" literally squats is owned by the Pennsylvania railroad. And there was danger the railroad would protest the erection of the cordboard, tin, discarded lumber shacks. So Father Cox was named mayor to handle their interests. He accepted the election and had a platform ready by the day he took office.

Principal plank was that the colony must be kept clean and all rules of sanitation observed. And he will have aides to see his platform planks are upheld.

"Buck" Crouse, former middleweight boxing champ will be "chief of police" and John Obermer, driver of his car, will be "secretary and sanitation officer."

"I'll take the job to take care of you fellows," Father Cox told the delegation which bore the news of his election. "You have to live through the winter some place and it's certain you're better off where you're controlled."

Cattle Die In Stockyard Fire

One Man Is Injured In Spectacular Blaze At Erie Early This Morning

(International News Service) ERIE, Pa., Oct. 8.—One man was injured and almost 100 head of cattle perished in a spectacular fire which swept through the stockyards of Schaffner Brothers here early today with loss estimated by firemen at $50,000.

Joseph Waschok, 37, an employee of the packing company, was injured when hurled to the ground by a frightened steer. About 60 lambs and six steers were saved when employees shunted them into a fenced yard of the Erie City Iron Works nearby.

Twenty-five animals were burned to a crisp when the blaze spread to a box car on a private siding south of the stock yard. Firemen and employees were prevented from saving the steers by sheets of flame.

New Development In Raid Case Is Expected Today

County Detective H. Martin Lee said that a development was expected today in the raid on the garage at the rear of 24 Center street last Monday night when city and county police confiscated two stills capable of producing 700 gallons of liquor and a large quantity of distillery paraphernalia.

No arrests have yet been made. The seized apparatus has been stored in the court house.

BOY ON BICYCLE CRASHES INTO CAR; IS FATALLY HURT

south, crashed into the side of the machine, breaking the glass in the front right hand door of the taxicab and bending in the door.

The victim of the accident was hurled into the air and fell in a headfirst manner on the curb at the northwest corner of the street intersection.

On being rushed to the Jameson Memorial hospital, the boy was found to have a broken collarbone, a bruised left shoulder and brush burns of the face and body. He was unconscious and did not regain consciousness prior to his death. His death is believed due to internal injuries sustained in the crash.

Coveror J. P. Caldwell is conducting an investigation and will hold an inquest some time following the funeral.

There were a number of eye witnesses of the accident, among them being Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Davis of the Legion home, C. M. Bohn of 18 West Falls street, and James H. and Fred Hammond of 208 North Jefferson street.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were seated on the front porch of the Legion home. Mrs. Davis was looking up North Jefferson street, while Mr. Davis was looking across the street at the time.

Saw Accident

Mrs. Davis saw the boy coming down the hill on the bicycle and also saw the taxicab going across North Jefferson street, after making a stop at the east side of Jefferson street. She states that she feared for an accident as she watched the boy on the bicycle coming down the hill at a considerable rate of speed. The taxicab was apparently crossing the street at a moderate rate of speed. She saw the boy in the air as the taxicab came on after the crash and saw him fall apparently headfirst, on the northwest corner near the curb. The taxicab stopped in a short distance after the accident.

Mr. Davis turned as he heard the crash and in time to see the body of the boy in the air and falling apparently headfirst to the ground. He rushed to the corner and assisted in picking up the unconscious form of William Brundert and placing him in the taxicab.

C. M. Bohn, 18 West Falls, was seated on the porch swing on his front porch looking directly east and at the corner where the accident occurred. It is probably 130 feet to the scene of the accident. The taxicab according to Mr. Bohn stopped on the east side of North Jefferson street and allowed some traffic to pass, then started across Jefferson street at a normal rate of speed. He saw the boy on the bicycle hit the taxicab and go up in the air and fall head down. He rushed to the corner and saw the boy lying on the curb and partly up on the sidewalk. He thought he was dead. He noticed an automobile stopped a short distance above the Falls street intersection and was informed by the driver that he had seen the taxicab start across and had stopped to allow it to get across.

The other eye witnesses could not be found but it is possible there stories will be along the same lines.

William Brundert, the victim of the accident was born in this city, August 11, 1913, the son of Fred and Olive Ulsoner Brundert. His mother preceded him in death a few months ago. He resided at 716 East Reynolds street. He was a senior in the New Castle High school and would have graduated in June. He was a member of St. Joseph's church.

He leaves his father, one brother, Fred Jr., and four sisters, Margaret, Olive, Esther and Elizabeth Brundert, all at home.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock in St. Joseph's church. Interment will be made in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Legal Debate Staged Over Admission Of Documentary Evidence As Proof

WOULD PROVE CAPONE NEVER HAD PAID TAX

Jury Retires While Arguments Over Letters Are Waged By Attorneys

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN

FEDERAL COURT BUILDING, CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Legal debate over the admission of documentary evidence amounting to a confession that Al Capone, the country's "big shot" racketeer, had never paid a dime of income taxes was staged in federal court today at the trial of Capone for alleged tax evasion.

The controversy between lawyers came when the first witness of the day, George G. Slentz, chief of the power of attorney section of the bureau of internal revenue at Washington, D. C., was put on the stand to identify letters from the government's files.

Various objections were immediately raised by Capone's lawyers with the result that Judge James H. Wilkinson instructed the jury to retire while he heard the arguments.

Slentz had been handed a letter granting Lawrence B. Mattingly, an attorney of Chicago and Washington, power of attorney to represent Capone in income tax matters. This power was drawn up on March 22, 1930, and was for the purpose of enabling the gang chief to straighten out his affairs with Uncle Sam.

This letter was the storm center of a legal controversy a week before the trial opened when attorneys for Capone attempted to obtain it under a bill of particulars. At that time Judge Wilkinson denied Capone's counsel the communication.

In the letter the statement is made that "Mr. Capone has never filed an income tax return"—a statement which regarded as vital by the lawyers for the government. In the communication Capone was described as eager to make adjustments with the government on his civil liabilities.

Mattingly had correspondence with the Internal Revenue Bureau in Washington with reference to the adjustment of Capone's income taxes. He also had a conference with the Bureau of Internal Revenue at Chicago. At that conference Capone is said to have admitted he owed the government taxes for years back and was willing to make an adjustment.

In one of his letters to Washington, Mattingly said he wanted Capone treated "as any other delinquent taxpayer." He also pointed out that Capone's affairs were such that it would be difficult to determine his income. He also termed Capone's records as "inadequate" and in some cases absent.

Capone, sitting amid his lawyers, listened to the discussion of the attorneys over the Mattingly communication with unconcealed interest. Capone, as usual was on time for court this morning—in fact, ahead of time.

Capone wore a salt and pepper suit and a brown and white tie. A brown and white handkerchief cascaded from his breast pocket. He wore his be-diamonded watch chain across his expensive vest.

atus, gas washers, scrubbers, condensers and general gas plant and oil plant equipment.

The combination of the facilities of both these plants will enable the new corporation to engage in a wide field of activities both in engineering and construction, and will be able to furnish steel products and equipment for all the principal industries.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Engineering Corporation the following officers and directors were elected:

Officers:—President, William H. Lewis; First Vice President and General Manager, Wm. S. Wheeler; Second Vice President and Engineer, Lee E. Allen; Treasurer, John E. Crawford; Secretary and Assistant Treasurer, Paul M. Patton; General Superintendent, Clark Rossiter.

Directors:—William H. Lewis, President—Pennsylvania Engineering Corporation; Harry J. Crawford, President—Quaker State Oil Company; Alex Crawford Hoyt, President—First National Bank of Lawrence County, New Castle; Lewis Walker, President—Hookless Pastec Co., Meadville, Pa.; John E. Crawford, Director—Potter Title & Trust Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Frank S. Hoyt, Director—Citizens National Bank, New Castle, Pa.; William L. Gilmore, General Manager—Hookless Fastener Company, Meadville, Pa.; Lee E. Allen, Vice President, Pennsylvania Engineering Corporation; William S. Wheeler, Vice President, Pennsylvania Engineering Corporation; Rufus C. Patterson, Chairman—First National Bank of Lawrence County, New Castle; Earl W. McGill, President—Crawford County Trust Co., Meadville.

The principal office of the Pennsylvania Engineering Corporation will be located in New Castle, Pa.

The new company has numerous orders on hand including a large tonnage of prison cell work for the Rikers Island Prison, New York City.

The Pennsylvania Engineering Works is recognized as the builders of all large equipment in connection with steel making by the steel industries and during the last eighteen months have designed and furnished including all the steel making and accessory equipment for the A. M. Byers Plant at Ambridge, Pa., two (2) 800-ton mixers, three (3) 25-ton converters and three (3) 25-ton rolling open hearth furnaces with all hot metal car accessories for National Tube Company's new steel making plant at McKeesport, Pa., two (2) 25-ton converters for Jones and Laughlin's new Bessemer plant at their South Side Works, Pittsburgh, Pa., one (1) 1200-ton mixer and one (1) 400-ton mixer at each of Bethlehem Steel Company's plant at Sparrow's Point, Md., and Buffalo, N. Y., and two (2) 600-ton mixers and one (1) 400-ton rolling open hearth furnace for the Ford Motor Company. The 400-ton rolling open hearth furnace is the largest ever constructed and will be used by the Ford Motor Company for scrapping used automobiles.

Find Body Of Man On Fire

Discovery Near Turtle Creek Believed Part Of Beer War

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—The burning body of an unidentified white man was found in a thicket at Hall station in the Turtle Creek valley late this afternoon.

The gruesome discovery, following on the heels of the gangland murder of Jack Palmer, bootlegging king, and an unidentified racketeer near Youngstown, O., brought the day's death toll in western Pennsylvania liquor warfare to three.

The victim of the "torch" murder had been beaten into unconsciousness. The body was dragged to its hiding place with an improvised noose.

Five gallons of gasoline were poured over the victim's clothes. The empty can remained nearby. The body was then fired.

The blazing corpse was discovered by two farmers who quenched the flames.

Police Chief William J. Whalen, of Turtle Creek, said he was unable to determine whether the victim was still alive when the torch was applied.

Footprints and the imprints of automobile tire treads indicated the victim was brought to his death by the scene of a fatal attack.

Second Largest U. S. Cotton Crop

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—American agriculture has produced the second largest cotton crop in all history, with an indicated 1931 yield of 16,284,000 bales as of October first. It was announced today by the federal crop reporting board.

This tremendous yield, in the face of Farm Board's appeals to reduce cotton acreage, was 399,000 bales more than the estimate of the crop reporting board on September first.

It was 2,352,000 bales greater than the crop ginned in 1930 and 1,016,000 bales more than the average for the years 1925, to 1929.

FRIDAY SESSION ENDS INSTITUTE

An oral picture of the development of education in a changing world, its colorful history and present-day needs; an instructive discourse in which emphasis was placed upon two outstanding ways for bringing pupils into full cooperation with their teachers, and a most interesting historical message on the political controversy between Ruford Hayes and Samuel Tilden, two prominent figures in American history, constituted the gist of this morning's program for the assembly of high school and grade school teachers of the county, gathered in the Union high school auditorium for the 78th annual Lawrence County Teachers' Institute.

The speakers were Dr. C. C. Ellis, president, Juniata college, at Harrisburg, Pa., who spoke on "Education in a Changing World," Stanley Krebs, New York educator, who spoke on "The Two Laws for Helping Children Do What You Want Them To Do," and Dr. F. H. Gaige, Millersville State Teachers' college, whose theme recalled the strife between Hayes and Tilden.

The three addresses followed the usual period of devotions, led this morning by the Rev. Y. L. Blumquist, pastor of the Savannah M. E. church, Savannah road. The teachers took part in a song service at this time also. J. W. Yoder, music director for the institute was in charge.

The schedule of this morning followed the customary institute routine insofar as the week's program is concerned.

This afternoon the high school and grade school teachers will separate into special conferences to discuss group problems, with different speakers as their leaders. Addresses will be given in each. The first conferences occurred yesterday.

HALF BILLION DOLLAR BANKERS CORPORATION

largely on the approaching conference between President Hoover and Premier Laval of France. If they can agree, the leading nations of the world should get a fresh holiday on inter-governmental debts, a holiday in naval construction, a reduction in armaments and all the vast economy such a program would afford their tax-burdened people.

Confidence Returning.

The relief of South American nations was considered too. A huge clearing house of commerce may be established to handle Latin-American trade. This organization, if created, would furnish credit, exchange trade information and possibly even arrange the exchange of commodities for the trading nation. It was greeted by delegates to the Pan American commercial conference in session here as likely to hasten the return of prosperity to nations below the Rio Grande.

Immediate Result.

The efforts of the administration to restore national confidence and defeat depression had one immediate result.

This was an improved tone of confidence among the American people in the stability of their government and in the prospects for better times. This was indicated by the trend of the New York and other stock markets, by editorial comment and by the gossip of the man in the street.

Reorganization Move.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Reorganization of the federal reserve system so that it will be adequate to meet the needs of present day industry, commerce and banking, as well as the emergency situation, will be recommended to congress by the treasury department, it was made known officially today.

Experts of the federal reserve board, the treasury and the office of the comptroller of the currency are concentrating on the drafting of plans for the revision. Some recommendations will go to congress in December.

This will mean a reserve system which will have sufficient broad power to function as will the voluntary organization of bankers who agreed at conferences with President Hoover and Secretary Mellon within the last 10 days to raise a fund of $500,000,000 to go to the aid of weaker banks.

The earliest known attempt in the American colonies of a declaration of independence was at a town meeting at Mendon, Mass., in 1773.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome.

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to New Castle Drug Ecker's or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Eardrops (double strength) and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises, clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

WHAT NEW CASTLE SCHOOLS ARE DOING

Under the general caption of "Know Your School Series" a series of bulletins has been prepared by various teachers of the New Castle schools, dealing with the activities of the schools.

Each bulletin deals with some particular phase of school life in this city and the entire series can be classed as a full description of the school curriculum here.

Here is one of the series:

VOCAL MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS

By Gladys Rich

1. To develop pleasure in song as a means of expression and to secure the free and correct use of the voice in singing.

2. To develop the power to sing at sight with words a unison song of hymn-tune grade, easy two-part, three-part and four-part songs these songs to be in any key and to include any of the measures and rhythms in ordinary use, and sung in an artistic manner with proper regard for dynamics, balance of parts, true intonation and good tone quality.

3. To acquire a repertory of songs, including America and the Star-Spangled Banner, which may be carried into the home and social life.

4. To acquire the ability to appreciate the charm of design in songs sung, to recognize the important features of certain standard compositions after a few hearings and to recognize and give title and composers of a selected number of standard vocal and instrumental compositions.

5. To develop in the rising generation a love for the beautiful in music, and taste in choosing their songs and the music to which they listen, for the enjoyment and pleasure which only good music can give.

6. To give every boy and girl an opportunity to develop his capacity for melody invention, and to write original songs and melodies, thereby stimulating and giving expression to his own musical thoughts.

7. To see that every boy or girl who is talented in musical performance shall have an opportunity for its cultivation.

8. To help our boys and girls to see and feel that music is a beautiful and fine essential in a well rounded life.

The progressive school in regard to music is in reality a "singing school" with much good singing in every grade and a keen enjoyment of songs because of the atmosphere established by the teacher. The proper use of the voice in early childhood, until and during adolescence, is the most important problem of vocal music teaching in the schools. Children inevitably form good or bad vocal habits which carry over until adult life. Habits of posture, breathing, diction, phrasing and tone production acquired in childhood improve or mar the adult voice.

In the primary grades we aim to give the child the use of his singing voice and pleasure in song as a means of expression. We aim to develop in him a feeling for rhythm. Daily individual work with Listeners (children who cannot sing in tune with the class) tends to correct practically all of the bad vocal habits by the end of the second year. An abundance of rote-songs, folk games and rhythm band experience gives every child a good rhythmic beginning.

The singing of songs is the most attractive feature of the music period in all grades, beginning with the very simplest type of unison songs and gradually increasing in length and difficulty. Two part songs are taken up in the fourth and fifth grades and three part singing begins in the sixth grade.

Those who have been successful in teaching sight-singing well know the enjoyment and satisfaction which comes to boys and girls who gain power and skill in reading this language. To sing with syllables is not an achievement in itself—it is merely a means to an end. With the scale as a background we find these Latin names useful and singable in gaining power to master certain scale passages, intervals and rhythmic phrases so when these same problems are met in songs they can be sung without difficulty.

The creative power of the child is also utilized in melody invention. As soon as he can think in the tone language, we find original song and melody writing both stimulating and enjoyable. In this field we have correlated successfully with other departments in setting original poems to music, in writing songs for original plays, for chapel programs and in making songs about the famous pictures studied in art classes.

Music appreciation is not restricted just to formal courses consisting of listening lessons with the victrola or the radio. The rhythm band, the rote-songs, the singing games and folk dances are also used to develop an appreciation for the fine things in music. As Professor Mohler says "there can be no appreciation without self activity—activity of mind and sometimes of body."

The Junior and Senior High School

The big vocal problem in the junior high school is that of the "changing voice." Only the skillful teacher is able to help successfully boys and girls over this difficult step in their musical development. The boy soprano gradually loses his upper tones so that he sings easily only in the second soprano or first alto. Nor should he be encouraged to sing low tones until his speaking voice as well as his singing voice shows the deeper and heavier quality of maturity. In other words the singing voice should follow, not anticipate, nature's lead.

Likewise one of the least understood features of the adolescent problem is the changing voice of the girl. As in the case of the boy, a disinclination to sing the upper tones is the first indication of this change and utmost care should be exercised to protect this changing voice.

Good choral material suited to the ability and the comprehension of the students is provided beginning with three and four part songs in junior high school and progressing to six and eight part choruses in the senior high school. This material is not only fine musically but it has a text worthy of the interest and appreciation of the students. A great deal of a capella singing is done and glee clubs for both girls and boys are fostered in the junior as well as in the senior high schools. Trios, quartettes and solo work are also encouraged.

Students in junior and senior high schools do not enjoy a choral period which is conducted in a sloppy or indifferent manner. But they do enjoy singing for the teacher who loves good music herself, who is particular about the fine points of choral singing such as intonation, phrasing, diction and tone quality and who can show the students how to sing artistic songs in an artistic manner. There is nothing wrong with either the music or the students—it is the teacher who makes or breaks good choral singing in our public schools.

Westminster Argo Given High Rating

College Annual Given All-American Rating By National Press

(Special to The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 8.—The Westminster Argo, junior class yearbook, has again been accorded all-American rating by the National Scholastic Press Association, according to word received from the headquarters at the University of Minnesota. The Westminster annual, edited by Louis Hazen, New Castle, and Florence Groth, Shaker Heights, O., scored 920 points out of a possible 1,000.

This is the fourth year in succession that the Westminster annual has won first prize among all yearbooks in the entire country. The Argo is the only college annual in Pennsylvania to win the honor this year and is the only one in the entire country to be accorded first place four years in succession.

The first Argo to win the high honor was edited by James McQuiston for the class of 1929. Eric Groezinger edited the 1930 book which won first place. Kenneth Baird was editor of the class of 1931 book which again won first rating. The Argo has always tallied at least 920 points and once scored 990 points out of a possible 1,000.

Next year's book, edited by Edward Rea, New Castle, will follow a colonial theme. Work has already started on the book. Last year's book used a Greek mythological theme.

Hard Fought Game To Feature Clash With Beaver Falls

Ellwood Being Primed For Annual Battle With Tigers Here Saturday

RECORD CROWD IS EXPECTED

Visitors To Present Lineup Of Five Veterans For Contest At 3 O'Clock

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 8.—One of the best grid games of the season will be seen here when Coach Heckathorne's football machine of Beaver Falls invades Ellwood City on Saturday afternoon for their annual clash at Lincoln field. It will be the hardest fought game the locals have encountered as yet.

Both teams are especially primed for this contest every year and perhaps it means more to them than any other. According to games in the past years it will be a contest that will be fought to the last minute and every advantage to score will be taken. A great bit of friendly rivalry has been developed between the two schools which in itself will insure an interesting contest.

The Ellwood High warriors have been working frantically all week to develop an offensive against the tigers and also perfecting a satisfactory defense. Fans will notice something new in the game Saturday afternoon. The locals will use a shift that resembles New York University's military shift. Upon coming out of a huddle the team, in unison marches to the ball and after being barely settled, it is snapped back. If used properly it will give the locals the advantage of a charge. Ellwood has shown quite a degree of efficiency in this shift in scrimmages this week. Local fans will watch it with interest. Coaches Gills and Lloyd have been working the boys out daily until dark. Scrimmages were held on Tuesday and Wednesday and another one is planned for today. A new signal system has been used in these scrimmages.

Tom McKim, who injured his back in the Union Township game was in his first scrimmage yesterday evening since that time. He played at right tackle. The lineup with the exception of Vogt, who has a dangerous cut above the eye, was the same as in the Butler game. The locals are bent on avenging last year's 35-0 defeat at the hands of the Tigers. If no one else obtains an injury in today's practice, Ellwood will be able to present its strongest lineup. All of the cripples have rounded into good shape this week and are anxious to do battle.

The annual Ellwood-Beaver Falls game has always attracted record crowds to local games and Saturday is expected to be no exception. Nearly the whole student body is turning out for the contest and a great representation of the town will be present. Beaver Falls is bringing a large number of rooters, and altogether this will make the town quite lively on Saturday afternoon. Ellwood is cognizant of the fact that they are in for a tough time. Beaver Falls will present a team that is undefeated and a team whose goal line is uncrossed in three games. Coach Heckathorne will present his strongest lineup which will consist of five veterans. Clotte last year's half back star will appear at fullback, the tackles, Bruninsky and Captain Kallon are back again, as are Howarth at center and Olzak at end. Schaubhut a new comer, works splendidly with Clotte. Both have proved to be the scoring threats in recent battles. The remainder of the team will be rounded out with Carter at quarter, Barry at right half, Hamer at left end, and Straub and Steops at guards.

Due to the Ellwood Reserve-Ben Franklin High game on Friday afternoon Coaches Gills and Lloyd will work the varsity prospects out on Friday morning at 6:30, it was announced today.

Safe Pleasant Way To Lose Fat

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose a load of unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and at the same time make you look so attractive that you'll compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Then get an 85 cent bottle of 4 weeks. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health. Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts—you can always get it at Eckert's of New Castle, Inc., New Castle Drug Co., McKee's Kid Rate Store. Plans Completed For Night School Sessions

Over 100 Enrolled in Night School As Revealed At Special Board Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 8.—R. J. Hawke, present instructor of vocational work of the local high school, will be the director of the night school sessions in this department it was announced at the special meeting of the Board of Education last night.

The board after some deliberation with an advisory committee announced definite plans for the night school sessions.

Night school will begin on Monday evening, October 19 and will constitute a period of 20 weeks divided into two semesters. The sessions will be held two hours out of three days a week which are on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Entrance fee to be charged will be five-dollars per course. Also the student must buy his own books. Of this sum $2.50 will be refunded at the end of the semester, providing that the attendance has been satisfactory and proper care made of school property. The sessions will be held from 7 to 9 p. m.

It was announced that the present enrollment is over the hundred mark and is expected to rapidly increase. Registrations will continue until October 19.

Those that have registered will have a variety of courses to choose from. Courses to be taught in the night school are short hand, typing, blue print reading, mechanical drawing, shop mathematics and business English.

The board intends to employ five teachers which must be certified to teach in the public schools. Local teachers which are not employed will be given the preference. Applications are to be made to the superintendent of schools.

The advisory committee which consisted of E. S. Jones, of the Aetna Standard, Norman Mortenson of the First National Bank, Robert Forbes, of the National Tube Company and W. L. Dean of the Mathews Conveyor Company, aided the Board's committee in planning this work. The board committee is composed of J. W. Offutt, chairman, William Bayers and H. W. Smith. Both committees will work together in this venture.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Young doctors on ambulance duty in New York see such a constant jumbled melee of living and dying that their personalities shift quickly into odd variants of cynicism and maturity. Some of them develop into physicians with perspective and kindness. Some of them are permanently glazed by fierce, tired life in early manhood.

All in all, they are a problem. They tend to lose the scholastic mien of the classroom early. Called on constantly to treat simple and compound fractures, cuts, alcoholism and dope addiction, they fall back on simple devices, simple remedies. They can't help suspecting that the science of medicine is unnecessarily complicated by the professors.

"There are only three medicines," said a hard, bright youngster to me the other night, a lad who had two years of ambulance work behind him and would shortly hang out his own shingle. "There are only three medicines a doctor needs to know. They are iodine, salvarsan and quinine."

That remark, if my memory serves me, is similar to a statement made years ago by a famous surgeon. I doubt that my friend was quoting. He simply was reiterating the lesson of experience.

"FIREMEN, FIREMEN!"

He went on to tell me about families on the lower East Side who ran to the fire alarm box for every minor tragedy. If there was an unexpected birth in the family, the firemen were summoned.

It was an unexpected birth in the family, the hook-and-ladder boys were summoned.

Food Gifts Are Being Solicited By Hospital Aide

Jameson Memorial Hospital Food Donation Days Are Just Two Weeks Away Now

Just two weeks from tomorrow the food donation days will be here. These two days, Friday, October 23 and Saturday, October 24 are being sponsored by the Jameson Hospital Aide society. They are for the purpose of securing gifts of fruit and vegetables for the Jameson Memorial hospital patients.

Committees to take charge of soliciting and collecting donations in their respective organizations have been appointed in each of the churches and granges of the city and county. All local people who wish to contribute some canned food, or baskets of vegetables which will keep, are asked to report to these committees.

October 23 and 24 are the dates for the grand ingathering and it is believed that many food gifts will be received.

New Castle Plays Washington High Friday

WASHINGTON HIGH HAS SMOOTH GRID ELEVEN

New Castle High Meets Formidable Opponent At Taggart Field

Five Regulars From 1930 On Washington Team—Locals Have Rigid Workouts

Coch Hank Day and his W. P. I. A. L. title contenders will be the attraction at Taggart Field Friday evening, when another gridiron contest is promised New Castle fans. The game will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

Coch Bridenbaugh has been drilling his big Red and Black clad griders hard in preparation for the annual battle between these two bitter rivals, and regardless of the outcome of the contest, local fans are certain to witness a game replete with thrills.

May Be Surprised
Coch Hank Day has five regulars and several substitutes from last year's eleven in the lineup which will be presented here Friday evening, and while many of the dopesters in the Pittsburgh district are predicting another title contender in the present Washington high eleven, the New Castle boys may just hand them a neat surprise package and eliminate them from the race Friday evening.

The Little Presidents hope to duplicate last season's feat when they upset the locals. Robert Anderson the terrific plunger will again be in the Washington lineup. Moriarty, Mawhinney, Paulekas, H. McWreath, Bryant and Amon last season's regulars have been making a creditable showing in the workouts according to reports.

Washington concludes its training schedule this afternoon. New Castle will probably stage a light workout under the lights tonight. Throughout the week Coach Bridenbaugh has sent his boys through strenuous workouts. Fans will see a much improved New Castle team Friday night against Washington than that of last Friday when Charleroi took the measure of the local eleven by a 14-6 count it is predicted.

It is reported that upwards of 1500 spectators from Washington will make the trip here to see the game. The advance sale of tickets for the game is large. Faculty manager Ralph H. Gardner stated today that he has arranged to have two more booths opened in order to get the crowd into the stadium with ease. In the Charleroi game there was a grand rush for the DuShane street ticket booths. The new booths which will be opened Friday night are located on DuShane street at different ends of the concrete stadium.

Pepper Martin, centerfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, played the lead role in the national drama at Philadelphia yesterday where the Cards defeated the Athletics 5 to 1. The dynamic youth got three hits and drove in four runs. His hits consisted of a home run and two singles.

As a result he stands in baseball history with Sam Rice, Joe Jackson and Buck Herzog who made 12 hits during a world series and with one game to be played and possibly two, it looks as though the sensational Oklahoman may make a new record.

It looks very much as though Emmett Rocco, the Ellwood City heavyweight, is tackling too tough game as he was stopped in eight stanzas by Charley Retzlaff at Duluth. During the past month or more he has dropped before Tuffy Griffith, Knockout Christner and Retzlaff.

Retzlaff had some difficulty putting Emmett down to stay. According to reports, he got off the floor about a dozen times and did not succumb until the eighth round. Before Retzlaff travelled east to fight Joe Sekyra, he was stowing all his fies away. Retzlaff is tall, young, tough and a puncher.

Johnny Risko will fatten his bankroll when he fights Tommy Loughran at Philadelphia October 19. Don Barnard, Cleveland featherweight, and Patsy Severo, Meadville, have been mated for a six-round bout at Cleveland, Friday. Mickey Barron, who was whipped by Jackie McGann, will tackle Jimmy Vaughn in another six rounder.

ENROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—While the newspapermen and most of the ball players are returning to Sportsman's Park on a special train, John "Pepper" Martin is going home in his own inimitable way. He has spread a lot of bases along the railroad tracks and is running back to St. Louis.

At this writing he has just stolen Harrisburg and is sliding into Altoona.

Played In Venice
Yesterday's rain at Philadelphia didn't bother Mr. Martin at all as he's accustomed to playing in water. He lived in Italy for three years and used to play centerfield for Venice.

The drizzle, however, was very annoying to the Athletics catcher as he couldn't tell when Hoyt was throwing spit balls.

Martin, always wanting to do something different, stepped up to bat and knocked a ball over the fence to make the people out in the street think it was halting.

After the second or third snow, one of the umpires complained of having a cold in his head, and Connie Mack tried to comfort him by assuring him that it was better than nothing.

The cold in his head, however, didn't last long as it soon died of loneliness. Moisture can't stay in anything that's porous.

The only other victim of the rain was Jimmy Dykes who got water on the knee from singing mammy songs at third base.

Paul McCullough To Pitch For Shenango

Manager Carm Sacco Picks Paul To Hurl Against Scarazzo

CARNEGIE, SEMLER MAY AID SCARAZZO

Carm Sacco, manager of the Shenango Pottery team, and Al Scarazzo, manager of the Scarazzo outfit today were laying final plans for the benefit baseball game for the Community Chest, at Centennial field, Saturday afternoon.

Carm announced that Paul McCullough would occupy the mound, and although Scarazzo hasn't publicly said so, it is reported he is angling for Olio Carnegie, home-run king, Semler and possibly another Pittsburgher to boost the Scarazzo strength.

The Shenango Pottery captured the Lawrence county championship and routed the Beaver Valley champions last Saturday, thereby annexing two titles. Sacco in making his announcement about McCullough declared: "We're not going to let any of our baseball prestige get away if we can help it." Scarazzo smiled blandly, having in mind the possibility that he may strengthen his team by the importations.

Should McCullough's range be found by the hard-smacking coal men Sacco will shoot Smolnick into the box. He relieved Paul in the clash with Beaver Falls. He didn't allow a hit or run. Jewie Coen, a shrewd calculator and Stauffer are the choices of Scarazzo. He will probably not make his decision as to a pitcher until immediately before the contest.

The committee will meet at 7:30 p. m. tonight where reports will be received and all wrinkles will be ironed out for the big game. Boxes are being sold, patrons are increasing and the general admission past-boards are going fast. It is planned to have the biggest crowd in recent years at the game. All the proceeds will go to the Community chest.

What Is A Football "System"?

Fielding Yost Of Michigan Explains And Points Out Difference Between Rockne, Warner And Other Methods Of Football Attack

By FIELDING H. YOST
Of Michigan
Written Exclusively for Central Press and New Castle News

Football is one of the very oldest games known to man. It was played in Venice as early as 80 A. D. and practically every civilized nation has played it in some form or another.

For centuries Rugby football has been the national game of England, and it is from the English game that the typically American sport has been adapted.

The English game, almost entirely a back or laterally passing game without interference for the runner was not, however, entirely suited to the American temperament, and we were not long in changing it.

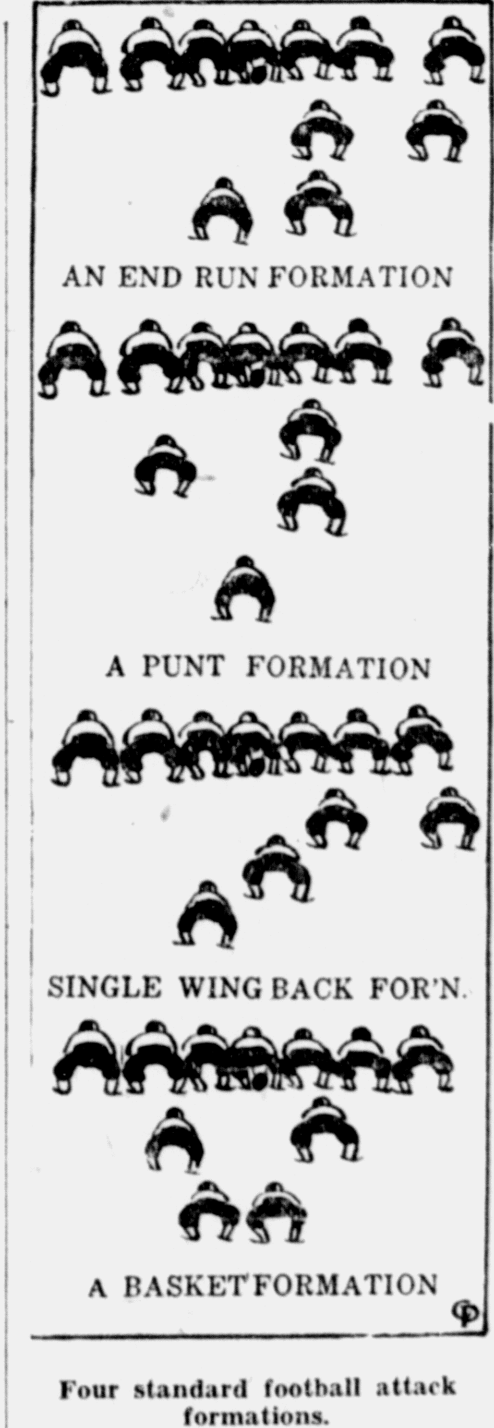

So great have we altered Rugby in fact, that our own game as played by our troops in English rest camps in 1918-19 aroused the greatest interest and curiosity on the part of our English cousins.

We often hear of this or that "system" as applied to the way the game is played by certain of our more prominent college and university teams. By the use of the term, we generally imply the various forms of attack.

Yet defensive systems, if the word is to be used, are of equal importance and have been developed no less studiously by successful coaches. The style of defensive systems are, of course, based largely upon the style of attack being employed by the other team.

The first offensive system was known as the T formation, with seven men on the line and the four men in the backfield arranged in the form of a T. For years, until George Woodruff, coach at Pennsylvania in 1894, developed the "guards back" play, the T formation was the sole offensive system employed. Woodruff's system was to bring six men back with five on the line two of those brought back being guards. This style was soon followed by the "tackle back" formation, in which six men were on the line and five back, one of these five being one of the two tackles. From 1897 until 1905, one of the other of these "systems" was almost universally used, the majority using the "tackle back" formation.

Then came the radical changes in rules in 1905 which required that seven men must be on the line when the ball was put into play. These rule changes also specified that there should be no pushing, no pulling the runner. The new rules also changed the distance to be made in downs. But the most important change, by far, from the standpoint of the development of the game, was the adoption of the forward pass. These rules revolutionized football.

Four standard football attack formations.

And from this system was evolved the "Notre Dame Shift," the main difference between the two being that the Minnesota shift included in the shift the linemen as well as the backfield.

"Shift and 'motion' plays should right here be very definitely distinguished from one another. Before the Minnesota shift was developed, in 1909, the word 'shift' in connection with football systems meant the shifting of the personnel, such as the two guards into the backfield, one tackle into the backfield, both tackles to the same side of the center, ends over, such as we still find in unbalanced line formations frequently today.

With the development of the Minnesota shift, followed by the Notre Dame shift, "shift" has come to mean what might better be termed "motion plays"—in other words, hop-skip-and-go plays.

Another important system is called the one wing-back system or Z formation which was widely used from 1910 to 1925. The Warner double wing-back has largely replaced the single wing-back. The punt formation is the one almost universally used. Every team uses it for many of its plays. It is used as a running, bucking, kicking or passing attack in all systems.

At Michigan we use this formation for every form of attack in all our plays. The double wing-back, the shift and punt formations are the systems used in practically all schools and colleges in America. Yet we still have some teams using the single wing-back in part or all of their offensive formations.

In my opinion, the hardest play against which to defend is the punt formation, because your defense must be widely distributed to take care of whatever may happen. The object of all offense being to deceive the defensive team as long as possible as to the place and kind of the attack, the punt formation is strategically the best.

St. Louis Cardinals Take Lead In Series

Martin And Hallahan Shine As Cards Take Fine Victory 5 To 1

Hallahan Wins Second Game As "Pepper" Martin Goes On Batting Rampage

Martin Drives In Four Runs For Cardinals—Macks Use Three Pitchers

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—The daring, dazzling combination of "Wild Bill" Hallahan and "Wilder Johnny" Martin brought desolation and despair to Quaker-town Wednesday when they battered the Athletics into a 5 to 1 defeat. Its now 3 to 2 in the world series count. The Cards need only one victory to achieve their glory and they have old Burleigh Grimes primed and ready to accomplish the wrecking of Connie Mack's hope for three consecutive series crowns.

Hallahan pitched a marvelous game, only to be cursed by the most miserable luck that any winning world series pitcher has known. Seven of the nine hits charged against him were wild flukes and again and again he was "on the spot". But with flawless courage he exonerated himself from every pit and joined the very small list of pitchers who have won two games in any of the classic struggles.

Martin continued in the role of a hero of the fiction type.

Martin Staging One-Man Show Of World's Classic

Mickey Cochrane Says "You Simply Can't Fool This Man Martin"

HALLAHAN HURLED VERY FINE GAME

By MICKEY COCHRANE
Catcher Philadelphia Athletics
Copyright, 1931, International News Service

ENROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—If we're going to win our third consecutive world series crown for Connie Mack we'd better do something, and very quickly, about this Pepper Martin. He's making a one man show of this annual baseball classic and all to the Athletics' disadvantage.

Three times in this series we thought we had Martin stopped. He wasn't. Each time after we managed to get him out he'd come back with just as much power and strength as on the opening day when first he broke into the spotlight.

Can't Fool Martin
Martin has put us in the hole once more. Yesterday he was responsible for four of the St. Louis Cardinals five runs. He beat us though credit must also be showered upon Bill Hallahan for his splendid pitching. Waite Hoyt, a cool veteran with an understanding of batting stance, tried Martin on inside curves and also fast ones outside.

There also was a change of pace inserted in an effort to get rid of this sensational youngster. He hasn't a weakness. You may think you've discovered one, only to have him crack the same pitch for a safety the next time it's used. He came through with a homer in the sixth with Frisch on to clinch the old game. This hit was off a Hoyt inside curve.

Hallahan had great control. He was even better in my estimation than in St. Louis. He had great judgment and showed that he's improving all the time. Last year he relied largely on his fire ball. Now he mixes his physical assets with baseball sense.

Homer Finished Hoyt
Hoyt didn't pitch a poor game for the A's. He would have gone on but for Martin's homer. In fact our pitching was good, though not quite so good as that of Hallahan. When a chap gets hitting as Martin is no pitcher can hope to stop him. He's what we call "hot." Not until his streak runs its own course will we get him out. Let's hope it's ended with yesterday's wonderful hitting.

We haven't an alibi to offer. The Cardinals have played great ball. They've had air-tight pitching, timely hitting by Pepper Martin and splendid fielding to throttle any Mack uprising. But we're not out of this series yet. The Cards are one up and two to go. We can even up the series with a victory in Sportsmen's Park tomorrow. Then we'll give all we have in the seventh.

We haven't been hitting as a team. Simmons did some deadly work yesterday but others, including myself, fell down in the pinch. With Earnshaw and Grove available to oppose Grimes and Derringer we are still confident of success. George is a great money hurler and Grove is due to pitch one wonderful game before the end of the series. Two more wins and we'll still be champions.

Martin, New Ace Of Cards, Upsets Mound Kings, Outhits Bat Champs

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Sports Editor

Four years ago a kid named Johnny Martin was punching holes in the ground in the vicinity of St. Louis—for telephone poles.

Today Martin (he's Pepper Martin now) is still punching holes—but every punch is hailed by black screaming headlines. So far, Martin has punched the Philadelphia Athletics—who just COULDN'T lose—into defeat twice in three games.

Martin has punctured the dazzling pitching reputations of the great George Earnshaw and the greater Lefty Grove. And he's punctured the American league dream of another quick world series victory.

"Martin" says no less an authority than the esteemed Connie Mack of the punctured Athletics, "is the sensation of this series." And you know he means it—for every one of Martin's punches stabs into Connie's hopes of three straight world series wins.

Seldom has a young player so completely dominated a series as Pepper Martin, the sensational Cardinal outfielder, has ruled this one. The best pitching talent that Connie Mack has—and his best is better than any others—has utterly failed to stop Pepper's devastating swings.

Short but not squat, Martin has the Hack Wilson knack of getting the full power of his shoulders into his hits. But he can place them too, as witness his clean, sharp singles in the series.

Martin has not only blasted the best efforts of the champion American league pitcher, but has outhit Al Simmons and Chick Hefey major league batting champions.

To see Martin play or to talk to him explains why he has shone so brightly in this series. He literally loves the game. He has a burning desire to win, but win or lose, he wants to play ball.

He is one player in this series whose only thought is how he may further victory for his side while in the outfield or at bat. The possible chance of adding $6,000 to his bank roll is, of course, not lost on him, but he gives the impression of considering the financial reward as a secondary matter.

So—when the series began—it was natural for him to say: "Why worry about the A's star pitchers? I'll go up there and take my cut at the ball—and some of my hits are national league pitching, you can hit in a world series."

PEPPER MARTIN

Philadelphians Must Throttle Martin, Or Lose World's Series

"Pepper" Martin Has Instilled New Fighting Life Into St. Louis Cards

Grimes And Earnshaw Will Get Pitching Assignments In Friday's Battle

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

ABOARD BASEBALL WRITERS SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—This day was set apart for trial and meditation by all those involved in the world series of 1931, but Connie Mack & Co. simply couldn't stop with this meditating stuff.

"Meditation," said Connie to his bedraggled Athletics as they boarded their own special last night, is OK for people like those Cardinals, but what we will have to do is to plot, provided Sherlock Holmes doesn't reach St. Louis in time. I have wired him because he seems to be the only person I ever heard of who could solve every riddle and I mean to put it up to him to tell us how to lasso that intolerable person named Martin.

Mack Not Worried
"Well, let's not worry too much," soothed his boys, "You know that George Earnshaw will be there on Friday, good old George." "Yes, good old George," responded Connie, "but didn't I read somewhere in the box scores that this insufferable creature landed a few haymakers on good old George the first time they met, and socked him twice more up on the occasion of their second joint adventure. I believe such facts to be truth, the whole truth and hardly anything else, and that is why we either must receive guidance from the aforementioned Mr. Holmes or second money in this baseball sweepstakes, which is not as it should be, we being the great A's etc."

Bank On Grimes
The Cards rolled the rails happy and jubilant. They won yesterday 5 to 1 and now lead the A's in games three to two.

"We're in a spot now where it doesn't seem as if we can be nosed out," commented Gabby Street before tossing farewell salutes to the Quaker town.

"We have Grimes, who stopped the A's with two hits on Monday. Burleigh ought to deliver again. If he should be treated by the A's in a fashion not in keeping with his age and dignity, we'll have Derringer to rush to rescue. And, if we don't grab that decision, we still have Bill Hallahan who has stopped those blokes twice and is ready to act as the pause committee again for the third time.

Martin Is Praised
"Meanwhile," added Street, "the only fellow the A's have who has caused us to gnaw at our nails in anguish is Earnshaw. Yet we've beaten him once in two starts and it's 50-50 that we can bang him overboard the next time. After Earnshaw and Grove whom we've hammered for 23 safeties! Hoyt, who was baited out of the box, Walberg, Rommel and Mahaffey, who have caused us no distress whatsoever."

The almost exclusive topic of conversation on this public conveyance is Johnny Martin, the most glamorous world series hero since the classic began.

Others, in the drifted years, have flashed brilliantly for one or two games or have placed some spectacular play upon the records so that their memories live for this year or that. But Martin has been the mighty man in every game played so far and the more difficult becomes his role, the more amazingly does he perform.

A's Bewildered
Since he rattled three safeties off Grove in the opener, and since he pilfered the first sack from the arm of Mickey Cochrane, he has been "ganged" by the Athletic team. Cochrane and the pitcher and the infielders have tried every conceivable trick to stop him from hitting and halt this reckless daring on the paths. Failure has been their only portion.

He has smacked every starting hurler and the reserve squads as well. He has connected with everything that a baseball can throw, except a fit. He has dominated the Cardinal attack and demoralized the superb machine that Connie Mack put together.

And the strangest feature of it all, in the career of Martin, is that he had to "steal" his way into the big league. The Cards, who picked him up in 1924 thought so little of him that when they ordered him to report at their 1925 training camp, somebody forgot to send him a ticket for money. Martin was suffering from a bit of depression at the time and so, to get to camp, he had to ride freights or the brake beams of passenger trains, without permission of the railroads. His arriving wardrobe consisted of the clothes he was wearing.

Thus the saga of Johnny Martin not merely rivals, but it eclipses any story ever penned by the immortal Homer Alger.

Fireman Hurt At Pittsburgh

One Fireman Injured, Several Have Close Calls, When Factory Takes Fire

DAMAGE IS SET AT $25,000

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—One fireman was injured and several other persons narrowly escaped hurt here early today when fire broke out in the Pittsburgh Engineering Works, sweeping through the blacksmith shop and storage room of the plant.

Joseph Gilmore, an engineman, suffered lacerations of the back when a section of pipe fell on him. Several other firemen and spectators escaped injury when a number of acetylene tanks and barrels of oil in the storage room exploded.

The blaze broke out in a wash room and spread rapidly to the roof of the building. Damage was estimated at $25,000. Considerable expensive electrical machinery being ruined in the blaze, according to engineers for the company.

NEW YORK STOCKS Further Recovery In Stock Market Today

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The leading industrial stocks and utilities moved upward a point or more in dull and quiet trading this morning, in contrast to the violent price movements of the last few days, stocks fluctuated through a narrow range and transactions in the first half-hour totaled only 300,000 shares.

With selling pressure released from the active industrials, and short selling under the closest scrutiny of the stock exchange authorities, another opportunity was afforded for recovery in the stocks that have been heavily sold in recent weeks. The railroad stocks were slightly reactionary, and the early gains in New York Central, Atchafalaya and other favorites in this group were not held. In the bond market, prices of the well known Railroad and Foreign government issues were inclined to slightly higher levels.

The general level of stock prices at the end of the first hour was unchanged from that of yesterday's close. American Tel. and Tel. after an early rally to above 131, dropped off to 130 1/4, up 1/4. United States Steel was up 1/4 at 68 1/2. American Can up 1/4 at 79 1/2. New York Central at 53 1/2, unchanged and Consolidated Gas at 68 1/2, up 1/4. General Motors was in good demand around 25, up a point, while awaiting the monthly sales report for September, due at noon.

Cotton prices fell off about 60 cents a bale at the outset, while Wheat and Corn fractionally higher. Commodity prices were generally unchanged. The call loan market was well supplied with funds and the rate unchanged at 1 1/2 per cent. Auburn Auto jumped 10 points to 107, accompanied by reports of a good gain in current business. General Motors sold at 25 1/2, the best price of the week, on announcement of September sales at 58,122 units. Though this is somewhat behind past similar periods, it was above expectations in important speculative quarters.

American Waterworks jumped 4 points to 31, leading the Utilities upward in the early afternoon. Consolidated Gas moved ahead 2 1/2 points to 70 1/2. Allied Chemical advanced 4 points to 78 1/2 and Dupont in this period rallied 2 1/2 to 58 1/2. American Tel. and Tel. at 132 1/2 showed a recovery of 2 1/4 points. Equally emphatic was the rally in the popular rails. New Haven moving up 3 1/2 at 39 1/2 and New York Central up 3 1/2 to 57.

Central Commercial Clearing House May Aid Latin-Americans

Comprehensive Plan Being Studied To Lift Latin-American Trade
Out Of Slough

Would Have Czar Or Dictator
In Charge Of Giant
Central Financial Agency

By HOBART C. MONTEC
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A comprehensive plan for lifting Latin-American commerce out of the slough of depression through the formation of a central commercial clearing house was being considered today by powerful interests aligned with inter-American trade. International News Service learns from an authoritative source.

This plan is not a part of the program of the fourth Pan American commercial conference, in session here, and its development is being carried forward entirely apart from this body. The plan is radical in many of its ideas, as compared to any project for a similar purpose, hitherto advanced.

It proposes the formation of a giant central financial agency, to be presided over by a virtual Czar or dictator of Pan American trade. The plan also would extend the principle of barter in goods similar to the recent exchange of wheat-for-coffee by the United States and Brazil.

The Brazilian government, which is one of the proponents of the plan, now wishes to exchange more of her surplus coffee crop for American cement which would be used in its road building and public works program.

The financial details of inter-American trade would, under the plan, be controlled by the central clearing house, which probably would be located in New York and presided over by the "Czar" of Latin American trade. The proponents of the plan are now looking for a suitable person to fill this position.

Banks Approached.
American banks interested in foreign trade, and those banks with large Central and South American interests have already been approached with a proposal to create a large credit to be managed by the clearing house to facilitate the development of trade. Long term credits would be arranged through the clearing house in somewhat the following manner:

The purchaser of a large shipment of goods would submit details of the transaction to the clearing house "Czar" who would judge its merits. If approved, the seller would be required to provide a portion of the long term credit, and the clearing house would provide the remainder out of its revolving fund. Both purchaser and seller would advise the clearing house when the transaction was completed.

Not Unlike Monopoly.
In many respects the clearing house would function along the lines of the Soviet export monopoly, frequently arranging part barter, part cash transactions, thus forcing a closer link between the given country's exportable products and its imports.

Officials of the American government are aware of the proposed plan, but feel that it is a private commercial undertaking, and therefore are occupying the role of observers only. They have, however, called the attention to a number of large American banks to the merits of the proposal, it is understood here.

Prompt response of the bankers all over the country to the president's plea for the formation of a giant credit reservoir for slow but sound assets encouraged the hope that the small banks and commercial borrowers in need of help would be taken care of. Already the flow of reckless selling of good bonds has been checked, and the bond market has regained some of its former vigor.

Attached to the gills of fish are gill rakers which serve as strainers for food entering the mouth.

Law Snares Him

Vincent Coll, sneering young gang chief, is shown standing before a bar of justice in New York as he was indicted as one of the Harlem "baby massacre" slayers. Indicted with him for the murder of a five-year-old boy were four confederates. Coll's mustache, which he raised as a disguise, is missing now that his purpose failed. The law, which has been thwarted time and again by Coll on previous occasions, finally has him in its grasp.

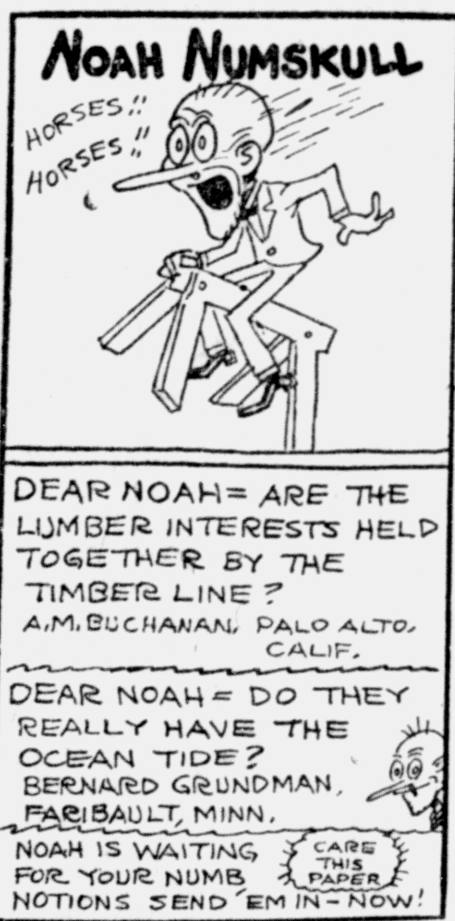

Back with New Mate

Grace Moore, popular American opera and motion picture star, is shown upon her return to New York with her new husband, Senator Valentine Parara, of Spain. Miss Moore, who met her husband on an ocean liner and married him several months ago on the Riviera, will resume her cinema work in Hollywood.

FLYERS DRAW LOTS FOR OCEAN HOP

Four veteran pilots, one of them a woman, are to draw lots to see which of their number will be the lone flyer to attempt a flight from the Hawaiian islands to the California mainland soon. The pilots are J. K. Van Althaus, German war-time ace; Hudson Mead, operator of the San Jose, Cal., air port; J. V. Hyde, American army flyer in France during the war, and Miss Victorine Lederer, of New York. The plane for the flight is being tested at the San Jose air port. Pilots and map of route are shown above.

'White Collars' Do Their Bit

Office passenger agents and clerks aided in unloading vessels in Boston recently, when, due to a longshoremen's strike, ships putting into Boston had to have some "smash" baggage. Here is a group of usual "white collar" workers tackling their new task, which they did with the skill of veterans. Francis B. Hamlin (left), Boston society man and witness in the Starr Faithful mystery in New York, is shown with other office workers unloading luggage from liner "Caledonia."

Oracle of Films

Described as the "woman who knows all," Mrs. Nathalia Bucknall, of M-G-M motion pictures, is shown in her London home following her arrival from Hollywood. Mrs. Bucknall fills a position unique in the film industry in that she must be prepared to answer any question which may arise during the making of a talking picture. She must be familiar with the habits of 1,000 years ago, as well as the customs of every race in the world—extinct or otherwise. She ought to win any intelligence contest—with her eyes shut.

Whistle? Moron!

Feel happy, cheerful? Well, if you must, go ahead—but don't whistle. That is, unless you want to be branded as a moron by this servant of the philosophy department of New York University, Professor Charles Gray Shaw (above). He says that whistling on the part of humans is a sign of a terrific inferiority complex, to say nothing of low mentality. Prof. Shaw would like to know, he says, if anybody ever heard such men as Einstein, Edison, Mussolini, or President Hoover pucker up their lips into a whistle.

Threatened Slayer
Threats of Ritchie to kill Lorenzo were repeated by Mrs. Tony Cobella, at whose home Lorenzo was a lodger. Ritchie, according to Mrs. Cobella, came to her home and demanded that she evict Lorenzo. He told her, Mrs. Cobella testified, that he was a Bradford detective and declared "If Lorenzo goes anywhere at night I will shoot him."

Ritchie also told her, Mrs. Cobella testified, that "in a little while Bradford will be a 'little Chicago' and I'm going to be king."

The defense was expected to rest its case sometime this afternoon and indications were the jury would retire tonight or tomorrow, after closing arguments and instructions to the jurors are delivered.

Murder Case In Smethport Will End On Friday

Tony Lorenzo, Accused Slayer
Has High Hopes

SLAIN MAN WAS NOT WELL LIKED

(International News Service)
SMETHPORT, Pa., Oct. 8.—On a fanciful tale of the ambition of "Buffalo Al" Ritchie to make Bradford a "little Chicago" and reign as its "king" hung defense hopes of an acquittal for Tony Lorenzo, on trial here for the murder of Ritchie.

Originally expected to go to the jury today, the case will be carried over until Friday, it was indicated this morning as witness after witness took the stand to testify that Ritchie, posing as a detective, had threatened Lorenzo after failing to exact tribute from him.

In Self-Defense.
Their testimony climaxed Lorenzo's appearance on the stand late yesterday, when he testified he shot Ritchie in self-defense after numerous threats and persecutions at the hands of the latter.

Sheriff E. L. Rhone, Mayor Spencer Travis and Frank Calkins all took the stand for the defense to testify that Ritchie had a reputation as a dangerous man.

Ford Company Is Named Defendant In Gigantic Suit

Pittsburgh Man Files Suit Against Ford Company For $18,000,000

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—Suit for $18,000,000, alleging infringement of a patented windshield improvement device, was filed in Federal court here today against the Ford Motor Company, of Detroit, by Arthur L. Banker, operating the Banker Windshield Company, of Pittsburgh.

In his bill of complaint, Banker charges that the Ford Company made undue use of a device of which he owned sole patent under an application granted by the patent office October 11, 1911, the device in question permitted the glass in automobile windshields to be fastened and held in place at the sides of the frames alone and included a protective ledge at the bottom of the frame.

Visited By Ford
Banker averred in his bill of complaint that the noted Detroit automobile manufacturer inspected the patented device in Pittsburgh while visiting here in 1913. He claimed that Ford returned to Detroit a short time later and made use of the device in his factory.

As the result of the alleged use of the patent, Banker claims that he has suffered loss to the extent of $6,000,000 and under the law claims triple damages in the suit together with the cost of the action.

The patent in question was applied for December 18, 1907. It expired November 10, 1928, and was not renewed.

The plaintiff averred in his bill of complaint that he has made repeated requests on the Ford Motor Company for payments which he claims are due him for use of his device. These claims, Banker alleged, were always ignored.

Refuses Comment
Detroit, Oct. 8.—Ford Motor officials today would not comment on the $18,000,000 alleged infringement of patent suit filed against the automobile concern in the Pittsburgh Federal court. They declared that they had not learned details of the suit and that the matter would be taken care of by their attorneys. No comment would be forthcoming here, they said.

Roundtable Group Parley Scheduled

Civic Club Leaders Meeting For Second Conference This Afternoon

A second meeting of New Castle's newly organized roundtable of civic club officers, formed to foster community undertakings on a cooperative basis, is scheduled to occur in the Pennsylvania Power company building this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The roundtable was formally organized at an explanatory conference last week in the Elks club. Judge R. L. Hildebrand was named as president.

Out of today's meeting will likely come some definite project which will bear upon local underprivileged children's work during the coming winter. It was learned that a matter along that line would be discussed.

Township Pupils Are Still Paying Their Own Tuition

Change In Arrangements Will Be Made When New Board Takes Office

Pupils in Neshannock township who are attending the Senior high school and the George Washington Junior high school are still paying their own tuition, it was learned at the office of the Superintendent today.

It is expected that the incoming school board of the township will make a change in arrangements when they assume office in January. Some pupils who were unable to present the money for their tuition when the term started, were denied privilege of entering the Junior and Senior high schools until their tuition had been paid in advance.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

After more or less experience around jails and prisons in the past few years, I've often wondered what the emotional reactions are of the lad who is due for a pardon or a parole, after serving a stretch in the clink. Most of the doubt is removed now and I think I have a kinder feeling for the fellow who has been thru that experience.

It begins to appear as though a pardon is just around the corner. The Knight of the Scalpel, who has had me looking at the ceiling since a week ago last Saturday, indicates that it won't be long now.

After eating, sleeping, reading, talking and arguing from one's back the possibility of standing up on one's legs again and using them for locomotion has no end of appeal.

From a literary standpoint Thursday is the big day in the hospital. The public library girls come thru with a cart full of books designed to please all tastes. Everything from the Rover Boys to Carl Sandburg.

And just like a kid with a nickel trying to decide what flavor lolly-pops he wants, you look them all over and decide with as much care as you would pick a suit of clothes.

Our pick today was "Little America" by Byrd, "Carry On Sergeant" by Bruce Bairnsfather and "The Sun Cure" by Alfred Noyes.

CHURCH NOTES

The Men's Organized Bible class met in the church Monday evening. Plans were made to organize a basketball team. The group appointed a committee to visit the different churches in the county in order to form a league.

Thursday evening will be the first night to study the teachers' training course. All who wish to join will see the teacher, Rev. Fredericks.

Friday evening Mrs. Watson's and Mrs. Pen's class will hold a masquerade party in the basement of the church.

HOUSE WARMING

The Ladies' Bible class gathered in surprise fashion and held a house warming on Mrs. T. E. Shaffer, as she has just moved into her newly built home recently.

There were about 20 ladies present. Mrs. Powell, the president of the class, presented the honor guest with a beautiful gift in behalf of the ladies.

The evening was spent in games and music. Those being awarded prizes were Mrs. T. G. Shaffer of Gardner and Mrs. Holshauer. At a seasonable time a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Houk, Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Lytle.

EAST NEW CASTLE NOTES
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lutz and son Kenneth and wife have returned home after spending the week-end with their son Jesse, who is undergoing treatment at United States Veterans hospital at Philadelphia. Many of the neighbors and friends will be glad to know that they found Jesse greatly improved and that he expects to be home in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McCowen of Beaver spent Monday here and attended the funeral of the former's cousin, Paul Stirtz, who was an accident victim the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Watson and daughter Nancy spent Thursday evening at the home of Mary J. Watson of Fayette.

Howard Bruce of Volant is spending a few days with his aunt, Mrs. George Lawrence.

Mrs. T. Remely of Portland, Ore., is spending a few days with Mrs. J. G. Comstock. Mrs. Remely will leave in about two weeks for Los Angeles, where she will be employed.

300 MILES ON 8 GALLONS OF GAS
New York Man Tells How

Thru the aid of a device called the Whirlwind auto owners everywhere are reporting amazing gasoline savings. Mr. Wm. Doolittle of Niagara Falls, N. Y., tells of his experience with the Whirlwind. He says, "I installed a Whirlwind on my Model A Ford and made a trip of 300 miles. When I started on my trip I had 10 gallons of gas in my car and when I returned I still had two gallons left." Mr. Doolittle averaged over 37 miles on a gallon of gas. Motorists owe it to themselves to install the same Whirlwind device on their cars. Right now the Whirlwind Company need men everywhere to make up to $100 weekly in their own territory taking care of local business and are offering for a limited time a free device to those who will help introduce it. Write Whirlwind Mfg. Co., Dept. 1521-S, Station C, Milwaukee, Wis., today for free device and big money making offer.—Adv.
